The delay over the Esquimalt by-election is still unexplained

Spring in Victoria? Well—Not Just Yet

It was Spring in Victoria, Friday. At least that's the way youngsters like Pat Wright and Chris Boyd optimistically read the weather when they visited Stadacona Park tennis courts that day. But this time of year you just can't tell . . .

Saturday was something else again as Winter returned and wet snow blanketed city briefly. To tots like Jamie Ryan, 3, 3114 Doncaster Drive, there wasn't enough of the stuff. Snowmen melted quickly, sleighing plans had to be abandoned. But it wasn't Spring.

Marines Menacing Red Headquarters On Central Front

Communist-Held Road Hub Key Point for Offensive

TOKIO, March 4 (Sunday) (AP).—United States Marines stabbed at the Chinese Red Army in its Central Korean mountain lair today, driving within nine miles of the Red headquarters town of Hongchon.

The leatherneck infantry and tanks, moving north from Allied-held Hoengsong along a narrow canyon road, were running into moderate to heavy resistance.

Hongchon, headquarters of the Chinese 66th Army (Corps), is the centre of an important road network that that Reds need to mount their threatened Spring offensive. It is 22 miles south of the 38th parallel.

While the Marines advanced in the centre, artillery fire and bayonet-charging infantrymen of the U.S. 7th Division farther east shattered one North Korean Communist division Saturday.

BAYONET DRIVE

British and South Korean troops also slashed forward with a bayonet action to gain more than a mile Saturday in the 9th Corps sector, west of Hoengsong.

F-80 Jet Shooting Stars of the 5th Air Force screamed low over Communist lines ahead of the hard-punching Marines.

Four Chinese Communist regiments were hitting back.

Heavy fighting also raged on the far eastern end of the United Nations line, in the wilderness five miles northwest of Pangnim.

There, U.S. 7th Division troops drove a classic one-two punch against some 3,000 Reds of the North Korean 3rd Corps.

After the action, a 7th Division field officer declared flatly:

"The North Korean 15th Division no longer exists as a fighting force."

The Reds charged through a deadly barrage of 3,000 rounds of artillery shells.

About 500 reached the top of Hill 930, more than 2,200 feet high. There they were met by a battalion of U.S. infantrymen with fixed bayonets who charged down the slope.

The surviving Reds broke in disorder and fled to the north.

BULLETINS

Drastic Cut

ASUNCION, Paraguay, March 3 (AP). — The Paraguayan Government announced tonight it will devalue its currency 48.5 per cent, effective Monday.

Fire Kills Four

MADERA, Cal., March 3 (INS). —Four persons, two of them infants, were burned to death today when fire destroyed their frame three-room home, nine miles north of here. Neighbors said the fire started with an explosion and quickly spread throughout the house.

One-Cylinder Government

AN EDITORIAL

Who is running the $150,000,000 public business of British Columbia? The Legislative Assembly elected for that purpose from the four corners of the province under the parliamentary system of government — or Premier Johnson's 11-man Cabinet?

Every session of the House in the last few years has supplied the self-same answer:

The Government, whose statutory functions are advisory and administrative, has become downright dictatorial in its attitude towards the Assembly, riding roughshod over private members whose numerical strength in the House keeps it in office, and arrogantly sweeping aside the wishes and protests of the public.

THE VOICELESS CAUCUS

The Government caucus, once a forum for genuine discussion of policy, is now merely a platform for Government dictos.

Members are not even taken into the confidence of the Cabinet any more. They go into the caucus-room ill-informed as to the state of affairs, to be handed a cut-and-dried plan of action, with an unyielding "That's the way it is, boys."

And that's the way it is.

When it comes to government by the Government, the British Columbia administration puts even the Federal Cabinet in the shade. Never in the history of responsible government in this province has there been so much dissatisfaction among private members as there is at present. The indignation voiced by Government supporters on the floor of the House and outside is without recent precedent.

PUBLIC IS IGNORED

Nor does the public fare any better.

Representations from outside seem to be a sheer waste of time and effort. Anything that doesn't happen to suit the Government's book is curtly brushed aside—as, for example, Attorney-General Wismer's stubborn refusal to pay the slightest attention to review and reform of British Columbia's idiotic liquor laws, despite the fact that the public clearly is fed up with them.

For all the influence it has in the affairs of the province the Legislature might just as well not sit at all. If this is what comes of coalition, then it's about time British Columbia got back a form of representation that would restore some meaning to the elections.

Large Railway Car Ferry Being Planned by C.P.R.

By RAY WORMALD

The C.P.R. is giving serious consideration to building a large railway car ferry primarily for service between Nanaimo and Vancouver, it was learned by The Daily Colonist yesterday.

Such a ship has been under consideration by the company for some time, and the project is now well past the idea stage. Plans have been drawn up and a bulky summary of provisions and description has been completed.

Already, it is learned, several shipyards have been provided with the plans, with the request that they submit bids for the shipbuilding job. Yarrows Ltd., is among the yards approached so far.

The railway car ferry is intended primarily to handle the transportation of railway cars between Nanaimo and Vancouver, and to replace ultimately the present system of transportation by barge and tug.

The vessel has been specially designed for this purpose, and arrangements have been made to allow for the handling of automobiles and trucks during holiday and week-end rushes. In order to accomplish this, the rail tracks will be recessed into the deck and the recess filled as far as possible by means of asphalt base composition or a similar material.

According to initial plans of the vessel, provision will be made to carry 250 passengers—facilities for which would be located in forward quarters of the bridge deck.

Say Elizabeth May See Pope

LONDON, March 3 (INS).—The British Court announced today that Princess Elizabeth and husband Prince Phillip will visit Rome in April, and court circles said they might pay a "courtesy visit" to Pope Pius XII.

British Protestants complained in 1949 when Princess Margaret, the younger sister of Elizabeth, visited the pontiff.

Youth Faces Charges At Duncan

DUNCAN, March 3—Combination of a heel print left on a windowsill and a false name given to an alert R.C.M.P. officer have led to the arrest of a youth who is charged with a series of garage break-ins in the Mill Bay and Cobble Hill areas.

The youth was traced by a false name he gave a police officer when stopped in a car at Duncan before the crimes were committed. On checking the name the officer discovered it belonged to a man who lives in Victoria.

GARAGES ENTERED

In the meantime, the Mill Bay garage, Cobble Hill garage and Malahat Beach garage were reported broken into. A heel print was left on a windowsill.

The police officer continued to check the false name and the trail eventually led to the youth. During questioning officers checked the heels of the youth's shoes and discovered one was similar to the print left on the windowsill.

Charged with the crime in police court today was 18-year-old W. E. Shultz. Police said he had made a statement. It was believed that a 16-year-old youth was involved.

Bomb Was Rail Torpedo

Losing Bettor Captured After Threatening Blast

ARCADIA, Calif., March 3 (AP).—A disappointed long-shot bettor was trapped today in movie magnate Louis B. Mayer's box at Santa Anita race track, after threatening to blow up the track with a harmless "bomb."

—AP Wirephoto.

PAUL SALZBURG

He said he was trying to get a "few thousand dollars" from the track.

There was much excitement for the crowd of 53,000 as police moved in after a quick-thinking spectator had stunned the man with a chair. Mayer calmly kept talking to him until officers seized the man.

"I have always lost on my long-shots," said a letter signed by Paul H. Salzburg, 40, one of two letters released by the track's security police.

"I have lost all my money and our car and my self-respect," said the other letter. "My only blame for my losses is the greed which was in me to get something for nothing."

Hansen said the "bomb" was only a railroad torpedo wired from dry batteries.

"If it had gone off," he said, "it would have done no more than make a big bang."

One of Salzburg's letters gave instructions on how the track could pay him the money he demanded by calling him to the steward's office.

Police had been on the alert for him since the day's racing started. The letters were shoved through a mutuel clerk's window just before the first race.

Maybe It's Snow or Rain: Weatherman Being Cautious

The weatherman says more snow today, but adds cautiously . . ."or rain."

The forecast came on the heels of more than a half-inch of slushy snow here yesterday with slightly more or less at various Island points.

The Dominion Weather Office people in Vancouver predicted sunshine for Saturday but got caught off base both here and at Vancouver, which suffered the worst March blizzard in 18 years.

Victoria's light fall was the third March snowfall in 15 years. It started about 2:30 a.m. Saturday and continued throughout the night, becoming heavier at 4:30 a.m.

The storm dumped ten inches of snow on the Lower Mainland and brought airline flights to a standstill at Vancouver and Seattle. Bad runway conditions combined with quarter-mile visibility and a 300-foot ceiling made flying conditions hazardous.

Victoria flights to Vancouver were canceled through the day but picked up again after 5:45 p.m. yesterday. Later trips were delayed about two hours as continued snowfalls in Vancouver were reported.

OTHER ISLAND SNOW

On the Island, snowfalls and general weather conditions were similar to those of Victoria. It was reported that about one inch of snow fell at Courtenay, a half-inch at Port Alberni and one inch at Nanaimo.

Last year, 1.3 inches of snow fell here March 9 and 4.3 inches the next day. The previous March record showed .7 inch in 1936.

Vancouver's heavy fall was the first for March since 1938. Trains were arriving there one to four hours late and bus travel was completely washed out.

GALE WARNINGS

Meanwhile, gale warnings have been issued by the Dominion Weather office for areas adjacent to the Queen Charlotte Islands and West Coast of Vancouver Island.

Flu Kills Eight in B.C.; One Victim at Langford

Eight persons in British Columbia have died of influenza, Dr. G. F. Amyot, Provincial health officer, reported yesterday. All but one were 70 or older.

One of the deaths was at Langford, three in Vancouver, one in Penticton, one in Kamloops and one at Revelstoke.

Seven of the deaths occurred during the week ending February 21. One other death had occurred before that period. No figures are available on deaths since February 21.

Over the province as a whole, 2,589 cases of flu for the week ending February 28 were reported, a slight drop from the figure of 2,834 for the previous week.

Apart from one flu death reported earlier from the Okanagan, the seven reported for the week ending February 21 are the first attributed to the current sweep of influenza, according to Dr. Amyot.

The deputy health minister said the disease struck aged persons most severely.

He described the current type of flu as "mild."

On the whole, said Dr. Amyot, the disease was not spreading in "an alarming way." He added, however, that the current spread was not yet over.

PROVINCIAL REPORT

During the week ending February 28, influenza cases were reported as follows:

Creston, 18; Fernie, 36; South Okanagan Health Unit area, 988; Chilliwack, 77; Vancouver, 291; Aggasiz, ten; Prince George, 155; Quisnel, four; Fraser Lake, five; Courtenay and district, 23; Trail and district, 35; Vernon and district, 961.

Abbott Preparing Document

Major Increase in Taxes Probable in New Budget

OTTAWA, March 3 (CP).—Finance Minister D. C. Abbott and his top financial advisers are working on the budget, the document that will fix the Canadian Government's rates of taxation for the 1951-52 fiscal year.

Speeches by Mr. Abbott and his Cabinet colleagues have stressed that the size of defence expenditures contemplated over the next few years will necessitate an increase in taxation. They have left the impression that the increase will be sizable, but that is as far as they have gone.

It is not known when Mr. Abbott will present his budget. Some guess it will be March 20 and others in mid-April.

EASTER RECESS

Mr. Abbott told the Commons recently he did not know whether the budget would be ready for presentation before the Commons adjourned for the Easter recess, March 21.

Some observers expect personal income and corporation taxes to be raised. Others figure that indirect taxes will be boosted on liquor, tobacco and a lengthy list of other items in the non-essential category.

Within the next few days, Mr. Abbott is expected to table in the Commons the estimates of expenditures for the various Government departments in 1951-52.

UNPRECEDENTED

The expenditures are expected to run between $500,000,000 and $1,000,000,000 higher than in 1950-51. On this basis, the cost of operating the Government—including the expanded defence program—likely will total an unprecedented peacetime high of between $3,100,000,000 and $3,600,000,000.

Mr. Abbott's problem is to decide where to raise the revenue needed to cover the additional expenditures. He has said he plans a balanced budget.

Western Steel Users See Discrimination

Allegation that Western Canada is being discriminated against by steel mill operators of Eastern Canada was laid yesterday by T. A. Kennedy, in charge of engineering and steel procurement for Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd.

He said the steel shortage is now more acute than at any time "during or after the war years," and claimed eastern plants were getting more of the country's "surplus" steel after provisions had been made for shipbuilding and various defence projects.

The "surplus" steel, he explained, was earmarked for various firms handling commercial steel projects—such as furnace manufacturers, water pipe line, welding plants, auto body shops and others.

TURNS DOWN JOBS

"Last year, for example, we received about 345 tons of steel a month for purposes other than actual shipbuilding from the Steel Company of Canada. This year we are getting about 45 tons a month," Mr. Kennedy stated.

Shortage of steel at the V.M.D. yard has forced the firm to turn away a tremendous amount of business. That included a $280,000 water pipe line job for the city of Edmonton.

Meanwhile, the firm has been "shopping" over a large portion of the world for the valuable material. The shopping tour has extended to France, Japan, Belgium, Great Britain and Luxembourg.

LITTLE FROM U.S.

Arrangements have been made whereby "very limited" quantities of steel will soon be obtainable from the United States, "but it will be just a drop in the bucket."

When it comes to steel needed for shipbuilding and defence projects, the material is obtained through a defence order priority issued through both Ottawa and Washington.

"It is no secret, either," continued Mr. Kennedy, "that there is a definite 'grey market' in steel. We, along with other shipyards and industries, could get practically all we wanted, providing we paid the price!"

Expect Russia To Urge Pacts

PARIS, March 3 (AP).—Western diplomats speculated today that Russia may suggest a peace pact with Communist China and a peace treaty with Germany at Monday's Big Four deputies' conference.

Aware the Soviets nearly always stage surprises at international gatherings, they think that Paris may be no exception.

The "World Council of Peace," which met recently in Berlin, urged the four great powers to make peace with China and in Paris today the Politburo of the French Communist Party came out for the same thing.

In a communique, the French Politburo said a refusal to meet and consider such a pact would "constitute proof of the aggressive intentions" of the government responsible. The Communist organ L'Humanite pointed the finger directly at America, saying the United States wants to sabotage the conference.

ALL ABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

BOURNEMOUTH—When it comes to entertainment, this town makes a Canadian city four times the size look like a warehouse on Sunday morning.

Bournemouth has 140,000 people. Greater Victoria probably has 120,000, which puts it in the same population group. But if Victoria—or Vancouver—can offer half of Bournemouth's varied and cheap facilities for having fun, my name is Cecil B. De Mille.

The program here this week includes two plays and two pantomimes by good professional companies; a symphony concert and recitals by three noted artists; an ice show and public skating; football, about 20 dances, several of which have bars and floor shows; and programs at about 16 movie theatres, one of which is a newsreel theatre.

Naturally Bournemouth isn't a typical English town—although the show facilities of nearly any sizable English town can make Canadian cities look feeble. Neither does Bournemouth pretend to be even a small copy of London, which vies with New York as the greatest show city in the world.

Bournemouth is just a prosperous resort which has made itself more prosperous by spending money wisely. I had a mild sneer at Bournemouth in a recent column, but I am forced to hand this town the palmetto leaf for enterprise in the amusement field.

You can walk for miles, through the costly pleasure gardens built by the municipality, to Bournemouth Pavilion, also owned by the Corporation. The Pavilion, a lavish stone palace overlooking the sea, houses among other things a large theatre, a ballroom, two restaurants and two bars.

You can walk into the Pavilion ballroom any morning and hear Harold Coombs, a noted organist, tickle the keys for a couple of hours. The most you have to pay is the price of a cup of coffee and biscuits, and you are not compelled to pay that. Previously you could hear rehearsals of Bournemouth Municipal orchestra for the same fee.

Not far away are the Winter Gardens, also municipally-owned. There the municipally-financed Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra, which ranks among the best in Britain, gives frequent concerts.

Rudolph Schwarz, the internationally-known conductor of the Bournemouth Symphony, has accepted a richer post with the Birmingham Symphony. The city fathers are preparing to wave him a reluctant good-bye, and casting about for another conductor of his calibre. They have been heavily criticized for not matching Birmingham's offer.

The Corporation also owns swimming baths, where aquacade shows are often presented in Summer; beach cafes and bath houses along the spacious seafront; and a big pier which is now being reconstructed after war damage. There are year-round facilities for many kinds of sport. In Summer you can enjoy outdoor shows, concerts and regattas, not to mention swimming in warm water and basking on fine sand. However, you can't give Bournemouth credit for the latter. There are two other public swimming baths.

Several theatres and movie houses have bars attached, and you can adjourn there for a pick-me-up in the intermission. At nearly all the cinemas, an organist rises out of the depths to serenade you for a few minutes between films.

Stage productions include London plays and musicals which come here for a week before or after their London runs; and plays by permanent repertory companies. There are also occasional offerings by five amateur dramatic groups, which I did not include in the previous list.

Playing this week are the Emile Littler pantomime "Aladdin," at the Pavilion; Will Hammer's pantomime "Jack and the Beanstalk," at the New Royal Theatre; Val Gielgud's controversial play, "Party Manners," at the Palace Court Theatre; an "adults only" melodrama called "13 Death Street, Harlem," at Boscombe Hippodrome; a symphony concert; Valetta Iacopi, contralto and Ronald Hill, tenor, and Mark Hambourg, pianist, in recitals.

The pantomime "Goldilocks" closed recently at Boscombe Hippodrome. Attractions coming next week include the Rambert Ballet, Maskelyne's Mysteries, and another lurid kind of play called "A Woman Desired," adapted from the French by Gustav Salou.

Had enough? Devout people may cry that shows are sinful, and the fewer of them the better. I have no reply for this. Others will justly say that comparison between British and Canadian entertainment is unfair, since Britain is a compact country with a large population.

This is true, but if we keep using distance and cost as an alibi in Canada, we will get nowhere. For Victoria, the comparison is loaded with irony. Victoria or sections of opinion in Victoria, try to attract holiday-makers by offering what is said to be an English atmosphere, plus some gardens and scenery.

But over here is a genuine English town—one of many such—attracting thousands of visitors by the honest means of offering them something to do, without losing much dignity. Bournemouth also offers its visitors scenery and gardens—and the gardens are better than ours.

Great Purge Sweeping China Areas

Hongkong, March 3 (AP).—The good earth of China is getting a red bath of blood as the Communist regime attempts to stamp out widespread resistance with firing squads.

The Chinese Nationalists, in an official statement by their Defence Ministry on Formosa tonight, asserted that 4,000,000 persons on the mainland already had been killed, with 25,000,000 as the total marked for Red death.

This might be written off as at least partly propaganda, the Nationalists being quick to seize upon and enlarge every evidence of Communist troubles.

TELL OF TERROR

However, reports pouring into this British colony on the fringe of China from many sources tell of the terror in almost every section of the Red reign.

Credible news of the great purge is pieced together from underground independent news reports, from stories of refugees, from the guerrilla grapevine, and from hints in the Red's own propaganda.

The true extent can only be estimated, but it evidently is widespread—much wider than the regions of Swatow and South China from which the greatest numbers of reports have come.

The Nationalist Defence Ministry has reiterated Nationalist plans to return to the Mainland at some future time and asserted the Reds will abandon South China when this happens.

The Nationalist threats might account for severity of the campaign in the south coastal region facing Formosa, but refugees from many parts of China tell similar tales of bloodshed.

Sub-Zero Cold Trails Mid-Continent Storms

By The Associated Press

Sub-zero cold bore down on parts of the mid-continent Saturday—an area still crippled by two big blizzards in a week.

The twin storms, worst of the Winter in the upper midwest area buried parts of a six-state area under a paralyzing blanket of snow. Gale-force winds and ice storms added to the hardship in the weather-stricken area.

Drifts ranging up to eight feet deep halted or snarled highway travel in parts of the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and Iowa.

Some towns were isolated, small buildings collapsed under the crushing weight of snow and communications lines were disrupted.

Colder air from Canada surged into the midwest as the snow let up and sub-zero cold was forecast overnight for the northern areas of Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin.

About 1,000 persons were stranded overnight in Glenwood, in north central Minnesota. Communication lines were broken in Iowa by ice and in Michigan by strong winds.

Highways were lined with abandoned cars in South Dakota. Motorists sought refuge in small towns or farm houses.

A northwest gale toppled 50 telephone poles in the Muskegon, Mich., area. Service was disrupted to three cities. Freezing drizzle topped 11 inches of wet snow in the Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., area.

At least eight deaths were attributed to the weather. Two died of exertion-induced heart attacks while clearing snow in Minnesota and six were killed in traffic accidents in Iowa during snow, sleet, hail, rain or fog.

Arms Census Offered Again

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., March 3 (AP).—The United States today offered again to let the United Nations count its armed forces and non-atomic weapons and dared Russia to do the same.

Such an independent census, the United States said, would settle once and for all whether Russia or the western powers had the biggest military establishment.

Renewal of the offer was occasioned by Russia's note to Britain last week charging the western powers had twice as many men under arms as the Soviet Union.

It was in a statement by Frank C. Nash, deputy U. S. representative on the U.N. commission for conventional (non-atomic) armaments and one-time assistant to former defence secretary James W. Forestal.

Nash said the United States was ready to start work on the count Monday if the Soviet Government would agree.

He told reporters the offer was made after full consultations with military leaders.

The Birmingham section of the 1851 British Industries Fair has no fewer than 1,300 exhibitors.

Food, Clothing Lead Way

January Sees Living-Cost Index Take Big Jump to New Record

OTTAWA, March 3 (CP).—Canada's cost-of-living index still is climbing.

Between January 1 and February 1 it hit 175.2 from 172.5—a record high.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics announced today that the January increase of 2.7 was the biggest monthly jump in more than two years.

Higher prices for food, clothing and home furnishings contributed largely to the increase. The food index advanced from 220.2 to 224.4 as higher prices for most foods, particularly meats and vegetables, offset seasonal declines in eggs and oranges.

Clothing went up from 187.1 to 192.4 as the result of increases in men's wear, piece goods and footwear.

The index of home furnishings and services went from 179.8 to 185.1.

The fuel and light index remained practically unchanged. It moved from 141.5 to 141.7. The index of miscellaneous items went up 1.2 points to 137. That was caused by increases in items of personal care, automobile tires, tobacco and hospital rates.

Rents were not surveyed in January, and the index remained at 136.4.

Two Minors Fined For Stealing Oil

NANAIMO, March 3.—Two minors arrested late Friday night when they were caught stealing oil from a Front Street garage appeared before Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts in police court Saturday morning. They pleaded guilty and each was fined $50 and costs. The boys were about 17 years of age.

Combined Effort

Plenty of Contributors To Far-North Puck Game

TORONTO, March 3 (CP).—If yells of "He shoots! He scores!" are echoing around the icy wastelands of James Bay, it's due to an Anglican missionary and the generosity of a Canadian university, two railway companies, an airline and a Hudson's Bay Company team of huskies.

Twelve little Eskimo boys figured they had everything they needed to play hockey—ice, climate and players—except skates.

They appealed to Rev. Don Whitebread, Anglican minister at tiny Port Harrison, to obtain 12 pairs of skates.

He appealed to Joe Griffiths, a friend and athletic director at the University of Saskatchewan, who got the skates and persuaded Canadian National Railways to ship them free from Saskatoon to North Bay in Ontario.

C.N.R. officials in Toronto talked officials of the Ontario Northland Railway into shipping the blades to its terminus at Moosonee. Austin Airways, which makes four annual flights "down North" to Port Harrison, agreed to carry the skates if they could be moved across the Moose River to Moose Factory. The Hudson's Bay Company obliged with a flog team.

The skates arrived after traveling 2,200 miles. Apparently they fitted.

Bus Fare to Airport May Rise to $1.25

AROUND TOWN

A bus ride to Patricia Bay airport may soon cost airline commuters more than one-quarter as much as their plane tickets to Vancouver.

Operators of the C. & C. Taxi Co., which runs buses from the T.C.A. Victoria terminus, have applied to the Public Utilities Commission for permission to raise the airline coach fare from 75 cents to $1.25 for adult passengers.

Fares for children under 12 and over two will be boosted from 40 cents to 65 cents. Children under two will be carried free of charge as before.

Operators of the coaches said yesterday that 75 cents was too little for the 18-mile trip, in view of present day operating costs.

The Vancouver firm which carries airline passengers from Sea Island to the Vancouver Hotel charges 85 cents for a nine-mile trip.

At times, one director said, the bus may travel to Patricia Bay with five or six passengers and come back empty.

A one-way plane ticket to Vancouver costs $4.80. This means that from downtown Victoria to downtown Vancouver, total cost will be $6.70, compared to the present $6.20.

If approved by the Public Utilities Commission, the new rates will go into effect around April 1.

The association's recently-elected president, Flt. Lt. E. A. Boulden, described aims of the organization for the coming year.

Strategic importance of the Air Force in the present world crisis was described by Group Captain J. A. Easton, O.B.E., commanding officer of No. 12 Group, R.C.A.F., Vancouver.

Appointment of W. De Macedo as public relations officer was also made at the meeting.

Brace-and-Bit Burglar Strikes Again

Situation was "shocking" thought Mrs. Gladys Baker yesterday morning when she discovered that Victoria's "brace-and-bit" burglar had broken into her store during the night. Here, she peers through smashed window where the thief first tried to gain entrance by heaving piece of cement through the glass. She holds a bottle of perfume similar to one taken.

Failing to gain entrance to Mrs. Baker's store through broken window because of bars (see picture on left) "brace-and-bit" burglar cut hole in door. Mrs. Baker illustrates how he put his hand through hole to reach latch. The burglar missed a diamond ring, signed cheque and some change in his attempt to clean out day's receipts from the dress shop.

Brace-and-Bit Burglar Strikes

Everything Really Quite "Shocking"

The whole thing was really quite "shocking."

At least, that's what Mrs. Gladys Baker, owner-manager of La Barr's Dress Shop, 732 Fort Street, thought yesterday morning when she opened the store to find that Victoria's "brace and bit" burglar had gained entry to the store overnight. He had taken $150 cash and, guess what—a small bottle of Schiaparelli's "Shocking" perfume.

"The burglar may have taken more perfume or other things from the store but I won't know until I take inventory Tuesday," said Mrs. Baker, good-natured in spite of her loss. She has been owner of the store for the past year and a half.

Once before she was the target of burglars in Edmonton where she owned a similar dress shop.

The "brace and bit" operator, who has already chalked up five successful entries and two unsuccessful ones, used a large piece of concrete first to smash in the window at the rear of the store, but, finding it barred, used a bit to cut out a section of the door, put his hand through, took out the key and used it to open the door from the outside.

The money was taken from a steel filing cabinet in the store office but the burglar missed a signed cheque for the rent, a diamond ring and a small bag with some change in it.

"I thought there was something wrong when I opened the store up at 8:30 a.m.—there was a terrific draught coming through the store," Mrs. Baker said.

FLOOR LITTERED

Broken glass and pieces of wood chips were scattered all over the floor at the back of the shop. Entry to the back of the store was made through a narrow alley. A box outside the door may have been used by the burglar to stand on when he smashed the window.

City detectives Louis Callon and Norman Bath are investigating the "brace and bit" operator's latest effort.

It was a "shocking" affair but the burglar is probably one of the sweetest smelling guys in town at the moment.

Foul Blow of Snow Hard on Reputation

George I. Warren, commissioner of the Victoria and Island Publicity Committee, must have felt like crawling under a snowflake yesterday morning.

For about a quarter of a century he has been letting people all over the globe know that Victoria is a city of sunshine and flowers, that Winters here were just about as bright days Victoria has experienced for some time.

So what happened? Yesterday morning about 145 top-ranking citizens of Washington and Oregon who are vitally interested in the tourist business generally, staged their annual "invasion" of the city under the auspices of the Olympic Peninsula Resort and Hotel Association.

They stepped away from the ferry Chinook to be greeted by flying snowflakes and an icy wind. Collars were turned up, coats were buttoned. The visitors were so busy being careful of slippery sidewalks and roads they didn't even have a chance to look up to see where the sun should have been.

All of this was anything but joyful for Mr. Warren—who undoubtedly was inwardly cursing the weatherman. It was a pretty dirty

The visiting party's sightseeing tour slated for late morning was called off. The visitors all had lunch at the Olde English Inne, and last night attended a banquet at the Empress Hotel where entertainment was provided by the Victoria Girls' Drill Team.

They are leaving the city today.

Budget Discussion

School Board Employees Oppose Staff Reduction

Ald. Waldo Skillings is feeling more kindly toward schools boards—with some reservations.

He termed as "facetious" yesterday a remark he made earlier in the week suggesting that he would sponsor a resolution at the next meeting of the Union of B.C. Municipalities to do away with school boards.

The question arose during a meeting between municipal representatives and the Greater Victoria School Board to discuss the 1951 school budget.

"I made the remark facetiously" he said.

"It would require an alteration in the Municipal Act to bring such a move about," the alderman said.

NO BUDGET SAY

But he added that municipal authorities have no say in the spending of the school budget and this point "may be discussed at the U.B.C.M. convention."

Hard on the heels of Ald. Skilling's suggestion that school maintenance work be let out to private contractors came a letter from the Greater Victoria School Board Employees Association, Local 382 (T.L.C.)

"This is an implication that the membership of this association deplores," wrote association secretary A. F. Smythe.

"It casts a reflection that is derogatory and misleading as it cannot be substantiated by facts."

REDUCTION WANTED

Ald. Skillings and other municipal representatives had suggested drastic reduction in the board's maintenance staff.

Mr. Smythe said that "the majority of the membership in this association are ratepayers in this school district and are just as anxious as the members of the municipal councils to see that the work they do is done as economically and efficiently as possible."

"Non-constructive criticism is a very damaging weapon when used indiscriminately."

DEFENDS SAFF SIZE

Mr. Smythe said that the school board maintenance staff of 35 men includes groundsmen, utility men and laborers, in addition to tradesmen.

"It is hardly conceivable that a reduction in the number of any of the above trades could be given serious consideration when we consider that the school board properties entail some 70-odd buildings with an estimated valuation of over $30,000,000."

Skilled Men In Demand, Service Says

Shortages are developing in the labor market for occupations such as boilermaker, ship's plater and precision machine operators, the Victoria office of the National Employment Service reported yesterday.

The demand for these skilled trades was a main feature of a local employment picture that saw a general reduction in the number of persons registering for jobs during the past week.

Decline in unemployed ranks was most notable in the male worker section, the report noted, with an increased demand for help in most of the major local industries taking up the slack in the labor force.

ORDERS BEING FILLED

Orders for workers have been readily filled to date, N.E.S. officials said.

Demand for women workers also showed increases in a number of occupations. The greatest need was for stenographers, typists and bookkeeper: single or self-supporting, the report said.

A slight decrease was noted in the number of women registered for work.

A Little Plain, Old-Fashioned Honesty

MUDDLED as are the affairs of the world and uncertain as to many it may seem that they can do much directly about that, it is difficult to escape the conclusion that part of the remedy rests in the hands of each individual. The greed, self-interest and bad faith which rises to epidemic proportions in such times must have their birth somewhere. If that is not with the individual where else can it be? Very quickly with such a premise one is led to the "we" and "they" pattern, wherein the charges are reciprocal and reversed. Human nature has the inherent capacity to see the beam, rather than the mote. The last thing any individual believes is ill of himself, and yet a lot of human standards had to be jettisoned before the world got itself into the fix it is in today.

There would never have been a Fuehrer in Germany if the German people had really believed in the worth of the individual and his right to freedom within the law. Much as that nation may have been fooled into wearing its erstwhile chains, that simply could not have happened if men had held to the ideals they professed. A tyrant may be a trickster and an opportunist, but without a following he is not more than a puppet. Behind Hitler, of course, there were those who were ready for a consideration to pull the strings. To the world's sorrow, the lesson of human slavery does not seem to have been fully learned.

If we are sincere in the belief in our way of life we must be ready first as individuals to live up to its principles, its standards and its code. There can, for instance, be no compromise with the basic concept of honesty. An individaul is honest, or he is not. Many of the ills of the day would lessen, if not vanish, if each person interpreted his obligation to society sincerely in that one respect alone. A little plain, old-fashioned honesty could put a different complexion on our affairs overnight. Only "we" can do that. "They" never will.

The Government Makes a Regrettable Error

QUITE regrettably, the Federal Government has taken advantage of a loophole to escape the consequences of its own abolition of appeals to the Privy Council. It was in 1949 that legislation was passed to remove, as Justice Minister Garson put it, the last vestiges of colonialism. Prime Minister St. Laurent himself properly added that the Supreme Court of Canada was well able to uphold the dignity and legal trust of this nation. Henceforth appeals to the Privy Council would cease.

The only exception was that cases begun before enactment of the 1949 statute could still be taken to London. This was to protect the right of any individual lawsuit as it stood when the statute was passed. It was never dreamed that the Government would avail itself of this provision, especially after its open affirmation that in the reconstituted Supreme Court of Canada all citizens could place their complete confidence.

Yet two weeks ago Mr. Garson announced that the Federal Government was dissatisfied with a judgment of the Supreme Court against itself and would carry the issue to the Privy Council. This, the Nolan barley case in Manitoba, had come to trial originally in 1947, and been fought all the way up to the final Canadian tribunal. Three Canadian courts had dealt with the litigation, and on each occasion the decision had gone against Federal authorities.

What reliance can Canadians be expected to place in the Supreme Court rulings when the Government refuses to accept these verdicts? In thus rejecting its own advice, Ottawa has made a grave error. All Canada endorsed the legislation that would make a Canadian court the final arbiter of its own legal destiny. The Government has slipped badly in not demonstrating that its loss of this case proved that the Supreme Court of Canada was what it was intended to be—supreme.

March—Master of the Unexpected

ANYONE who trusts March ought to have his head examined. It can pick a morning from February, an afternoon from April, an evening from December, and become all three of them by turns at night without the slightest attempt at apology. March goes shopping in the ragbag of the winds, choosing those of colder and damper variety, with a suspicion of ice in them for good measure. It shifts the cloud screen from the face of the sun with such unpredictable changes that no man can foresee for five minutes at a time what may be coming next.

Out of the locker of unspent Winter stores, March takes a handful of mist, drizzle, sleet, snow and hail to drop into the mixture, like random currants in a birthday cake. But what a birthday it celebrates—freezing winds with bright, unclouded skies, a leaden overcast with a breeze that could only have come from some oven. March proceeds on the principle that it can be calendar-wise yesterday and again tomorrow, but that today it will be anything it chooses.

Of what use is the adage about March and the lion! No self-respecting lion could be half so capricious and retain a shadow of its reputation. March is as March is. That is the truth of it. Let mad hares gambol; March will find a wind to blow on them, a rain to chill them and will send them all home with their feet wet and their noses running. Yet, somewhere, March conceals in its pouch a genuine and vitally recurring miracle—Spring.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

JUST couldn't resist congratulating you," says C.W.P., "on bringing up the matter of Victoria's boastful slogan." (Thinking Aloud, Jan. 24). Every time I hear it on the radio I find myself itching to pick up the phone and repeat from the Proverbs:

"Let another man praise thee and not thine own mouth; a stranger and not thine own lips."

R.H., commenting on "Munt-a-cuddy" and other English juvenile games (T.A., Feb. 13), cites a few of their Canadian counterparts. "Munt-a-cuddy" was played in his youth in North Toronto, but known as "Blacksmith." The game in which two contestants try to push each other out of a ring is similar to the Canadian "Bull in the ring," while the street-hopping exercise from curb to curb reminds him of a game he knew as "Red Lion." For his part, G.L. writes to say "Munt-a-cuddy" was known in his Staffordshire village 60 years ago as "Huck, Buck."

Discussion of trace-boys (T.A., Jan. 4) gave E.W.H. an attack of nostalgia, throwing him back to a boyhood spent near Plymouth in the days of horse-drawn trams.

"There is quite a hill between Plymouth and Stonehouse (I think) or Devonport, and many a time my sister, brother and myself rode these trams and always looked out for the trace-boys. Several would be waiting with their horses at the foot of the hill, and as the tram came along one boy would ride alongside and leaning well over drop his hook into a ring on one side of the tram while another boy did the same on the other. So four horses abreast took the tram up the hill at a fast trot, sometimes a gallop."

About the Red Dean (T.A., Feb. 21) A. McG. says: "I am of the opinion that the ideas you express are somewhat biassed. Your first premise is that the Dean of Canterbury rose to his high position in the Church of England by political influence. At the same time you claim he does not support the British Government. How the Dean can criticise the Government and rise in the Church through pull in the same Government is beyond my reasoning. I have known the Dean of Canterbury for many years and my experience of association with him is that his ethical principles are of a high Christian order."

(Dean Johnson, of course, has not risen farther since his appointment, and the present Government is not the same as that which appointed him.)

Writes M.A.: "You are, I think, about the only newspaperman who has had the courage to state clearly your thoughts upon the subject of the Red Dean. Several people to whom I have spoken on the subject of that gentleman's treachery, have either looked embarrassed or suggested that perhaps he should be ignored. 'So awkward, you know, his being a clergyman!'"

Apropos naval lore as regards referring to ships by name, H.W.S.S. says the captain of a ship may be addressed or referred to by the name of the ship he commands only by his equals or superiors—a "within-the-family" informality not permissable to others. He cites the boner made by a radio announcer when the Sioux came home, who "repeatedly referred to the fact that they were passing close to THE H.M.C.S. ONTARIO."

Apropos the Scone Stone (T.A. Feb. 27) H.M.H. writes: "After giving the matter serious thought I have come to the conclusion that the stone in question is undoubtedly auriferous quartz. Being so are you surprised that a body of Aberdonians haven't had their eye on it for some time, and knowing the propensities of Aberdonians for the wee bit siller (in this case gold) I think it is an open-and-shut case!"

America's Bossiness

By JAY G. HAYDEN
North American Newspaper Alliance

WASHINGTON—The outburst of indignation in the British Parliament over selection of an American admiral to command the Atlantic Pact naval forces is likely to be duplicated in the United States Congress unless the seemingly tendency to have Uncle Sam run everything is somehow ameliorated.

Despite the great personal popularity of General Eisenhower, there was considerable Congressional backing for the viewpoint expressed by Senator Taft that Europe was handing America the top command, preliminary to saddling it with an oversized share of the defence burdens.

And now, as it appears, command of both sea and air forces is to go to Americans. Admiral William M. Fechteler is slated for the North Atlantic naval command and there have been reports for some time that Lieut.-Gen. Lauris Norstad, present commander of American air forces in Europe, would head the combined air defence.

Churchill drew loud cheers in Parliament when he asked:

"How is it that when our experience is longer and wider than that of any other country of the submarine evil and when we have agreed with so much pleasure that General Eisenhower should be in command of the armed forces on land, we should resign any claim we might be thought to have to command of the sea on the Atlantic?"

And said J. B. Hynd, a Labor member:

"The world at large is beginning to think there is something wrong when the Americans have the leadership of the Atlantic forces on land, the Korean forces, and now presumably they are to have the leadership of another force."

The best that Prime Minister Attlee could offer in retort was a promise to "look into the matter," presumably to see if this blow to Britain's pride somehow could be assuaged.

Now it is suggested that Admiral Fechteler's command be confined to the Atlantic and a Briton be named to a parallel post, embracing the Mediterranean.

In the approaching Congressional "Big Debate" over foreign policy, not only Senator Taft but members more sympathetic with American help to Europe may suggest that too much United States bossiness is one reason why other nations are slow in helping to carry the military load in both Europe and Korea.

The British are disturbed by American dictation in other directions. Above everything else at the moment, perhaps, embargos on trade with Communist China and Russia and its satellites in Europe, imposed at United States behest, are distasteful to British public opinion.

Business in Hongkong is reported all but paralyzed by the Chinese trade embargo of the United States. And the British are resentful of the closing of American banks and commercial concerns in Hongkong and the urging by Washington that all United States citizens leave that British colony as soon as possible.

The effect of these American actions, as the British see it, is to tip off the Chinese Communists both that the United States does not intend to help defend Hongkong and that we expect it to fall before long.

The Sunday London Daily Mirror, with the largest daily circulation of all British newspapers, headlined the question, "Is Britain Bowing to America?"

The following article from the newspaper's New York correspondent declared that the United States addresses Britain in terms that are "vigorous and often imperious," and Britain "nearly always replies mildly or apologetically and even mincingly." The British make "diffident" suggestions and "polite little protests," but in the end generally bow to American wishes.

"Anaemic" British diplomacy, this writer says, "permitted MacArthur foolishly to rush United States troops far above the 38th Parallel (in Korea) into disaster."

All of which suggests that the United States might do well to give an appearance, at least, of sometimes permitting others to do the international leading.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

IN the one family you will often find a son who is the employer of hundreds of people, and another who is cut out for nothing but an employee as long as he lives. People appear to be divided into two clear-cut categories: the users and the used.

In thousands of cases, users have to serve among the used for many years, possibly, before they get their opportunity to step up into the ranks of the users in their own right. These are the managers, superintendents, foremen and agents.

But in millions of cases, the used would be entirely helpless without somebody to use them. This is a fact that our democratic generation hates to face. In fact, there is a powerful section of opinion that hotly denies it. There is a school of heavy if not deep thinkers who declare that the used should all get together and use the users.

That is socialism in a rough sort of definition. And it might be, it could be, that the users amongst us could be persuaded by various means to bend their talents to using the rest of us without any special reward. That is the hope and expectation of socialism.

But in the only existing demonstration of socialism in operation—the Russian—the users are there in a worse form than ever: the users in that case being a compact party of politicians employing a savage police state equipped with a fabulous propaganda machine as well as guns and prisons, so that the used are more in the category of livestock than of human beings.

Users have to be kept in control, of course. History is merely the record of how we who are used have controlled our users. The most important thing is to prevent our users from being politicians. So long as our users are divided and diversified, we have them more or less where we want them. But to get into the hands of a gang of promoters and politicians not otherwise employed would be disaster indeed.

PAPER MONEY

Sir,—It now seems to be reasonably clear that our North American inflation is being caused by the issuance of more paper money than is needed to equal the production of goods. Mr. Truman refuses to allow American Government bonds to find their true market value by continually buying up all offerings of Government bonds with newly-created currency. This is really causing all currency and "paper" to gradually lose its value and if persisted in is bound to create a very much more serious state of affairs than exists. It may be politically expedient for the North American politicians now in power to keep sowing the seeds of inflation and higher prices, but they will certainly reap the whirlwind if they don't apply some plain ordinary horse sense and face the facts.

HOSPITAL INSURANCE

Sir,—Several good suggestions have been offered re the raising of funds for the Hospital Insurance deficit. The wisest published to date seems that of charging one dollar daily per patient, which is more fair than placing more burden on those who may never be hospitalized, and check the person who "just loves being in hospital," or has chronic hospitalitis, and being a nurse I know there are many.

May I suggest another scheme, i.e. let the doctors pay one dollar daily per patient admitted by each doctor.

A doctor, at no cost whatever, has the free use of the hospital, which includes the X-ray, the laboratory and technicians, the surgery and instruments, and the whole staff of nurses, all paid for by the citizens of the province. In addition to all this, his patients are centralized in one building, saving him many dollars in gasoline for visits, and also time. What other profession is given such free equipment and personal service. Why should he not pay the hospital for accepting his cases and for use of equipment?

No hospital committee would suggest such a plan as most of them have medicos on the board, but the Government administration could.

This suggestion is fair, and also would check the custom of admitting surgical cases to the medical ward days or weeks before an operation in order that the patient can be switched to the first empty surgical bed vacant all at the taxpayers' expense. Also it checks the lengthy stay of privileged patients. . . .

MILK PRICES

Sir,—I would like to congratulate Mr. Don Brown, Coalition Vancouver-Burrard member, on his speech in the Legislature concerning the Provincial Milk Board. I agree with him, as many others do, that we should have at least three or four on this board.

I belong to an organization which supplies milk to undernourished children of Victoria, and I know the output of milk to these children will be reduced owing to increased prices. This also will apply to the aged on pensions. If young children do not have sufficient milk they are going to suffer by it and they are our future citizens. Having a family of four, now grown up, I am in a position to know. Cannot some arrangement be made for reduced prices to our young and aged? DORIS CLARK.

"He Who Has Once Been Happy"

He who has once been happy is for aye
Out of destruction's reach. His fortune then
Holds nothing secret; and Eternity,
Which is a mystery to other men,
Has like a woman given him its joy.
Time is his conquest. Life, if it should fret,
Has paid him tribute. He can bear to die.
He who has once been happy! When I set
The world before me and survey its range,
Its mean ambitions, its scant fantasies,
The shreds of pleasure which for lack of change
Men wrap around them and call happiness,
The poor delights which are the tale and sum
Of the world's courage in its martyrdom . . .

Obscuring Forests of Whiskers

(From The London Free Press)

HOW decorative are whiskers? This question takes on national importance with the arrival in Ottawa of a Dutch masterpiece, which was donated by The Netherlands Government with the suggestion that it be hung in Canada's Parliament Buildings.

Ottawa officialdom says that there is little wall space left in Parliament because of the amount taken up with portraits of Canada's men of history.

This leaves The Ottawa Journal cold. It points out that most of the historic pictures exhibit a large acreage of whiskers. And it feels that while there may have been a time when whiskers gave statesmen added dignity, now rows of portraits of bushy beards add nothing to the joys of life. Accordingly it favors establishment of a joint committee to clear the corridors of this "cultural rubbish," before the situation gets out of hand.

Some Canadians may find the suggestion hair-raising. Nor is it easy to decide what qualifications are necessary for lasting fame. Some contestants might justify quality by a whisker.

Victoria in Beard and Crinoline

From Files of The Daily British Colonist for March, 1864

By G. E. MORTIMORE

RACE prejudice was fairly strong in old Victoria, said a correspondent of The Pacific Appeal, a negro newspaper published in San Francisco. In some cases the social and political position of colored people is more favorable there than here, but Americans . . . who have settled here, have formed a public opinion unfavorable to us.

"Happily they have not succeeded in all cases. Churches and schools are exceptions, although our leading men had to fight hard to obtain their rights in both. Messrs. Lester, Gibbs, J. Francis and others battled manfully to keep churches and schools free from caste, and to their exertions is due the equality which exists in these institutions.

"I went to the theatre with some ladies . . . When I said I wanted box tickets, the man hesitated, and said he believed the boxes were full; but as I insisted, he gave me them, and we found very elegible seats.

"Colored men are never summoned as jurors on trials; I believe they have occasionally sat on coroner's juries. When they were organizing fire companies, Jacob Francis endeavored to have the colored inhabitants represented, but he was voted down."

Barber shops, bars, restaurants and hotels run by "Americans or foreigners" often excluded colored people. "In many of the finest establishments, where the proprietors are Englishmen, there is no distinction; they are free from the influences and prejudices which Americans have introduced.

"There are, however, many Englishmen as full of prejudice as the lowest secesh (Southern) American among them. They all, moreover, receive you with an aristocratic, patronising air."

Many colored people had become fairly wealthy in mining and real estate. They had the vote and could run for city council, but not the colonial assembly. "It is not very probable a colored person will ever be elected to either body. Two attempts have been made, and although in each case the candidates were as capable and worthy as any in the colony, they were both defeated. Prejudice is too strong on Vancouver Island."

Turkey Seeks Promise Of Military Support

EUROPE TODAY

By KINGSBURY SMITH

PARIS, March 3 (INS)—Turkey was reported today to be seeking an American guarantee of military support for an Eastern Mediterranean defence pact.

Diplomatic advices reaching Paris from Ankara stated that the Turkish Government was understood to have made such a request to American officials.

Turkey, according to these diplomatic advices, would like to form a defensive alliance with Greece and Egypt to discourage aggression in the Eastern Mediterranean.

However, the Turks are said to feel that in order to be an effective deterrent to aggression, such a defensive alliance should have the same assurance of American support that the United States has given the Western European Allies under the Atlantic Pact.

Turkish views on this subject are reported to have been made clear to U.S. Assistant Secretary of State George C. MacGhee and Air Secretary Thomas K. Finletter.

While MacGhee reportedly promised the Turks they could rest assured of American help if Turkey was attacked, he is believed to have pointed out that he was not authorized to make any formal military commitments.

Turkey sits astride the Soviet road to the Near East. The Turks, like some Western European military experts, fear that if Russia should decide to risk war with the Western powers, the first major military offensive of the Soviet armies would be directed towards the Near and Middle East with a view of capturing the oil fields and at the same time denying the Western allies the use of air bases in those regions.

ADMISSION OPPOSED

In the hope of discouraging the Soviet leadership from attempting any such move, the Turkish Government would like to see an Eastern Mediterranean defence pact backed by a formal commitment of immediate American military intervention.

Turkey made known some time ago its desire to become a member of the Atlantic Pact. Some of the Northern European members of the pact opposed Turkey's admission on the grounds that they did not wish to become too closely involved in the traditionally turbulent Balkans.

Truman's Vacation Explained

U.S. Policies on Defence Against Aggression Set

By ROBERT G. NIXON

U.S. SUB —3, KEY WEST, Fla., March 3 (INS).—A close associate of President Truman said today that the United States has completed its basic, long-range policies of defence against Communist aggression.

That is why, this source told International News Service, the chief executive has been able to take his present "working vacation" in Florida.

The spokesman emphasized, however, that Mr. Truman's trip to Key West for three weeks does not mean that there has been any "easing up" of the defence emergency. He explained it this way:

"We have passed through the formative stage of mobilization planning. Our defence effort is moving along. Basic and long-range policies have been laid down. That's why the President is now able to get away for a rest."

The Presidential intimate said that reports of "peace feelers" from Russia appear to have little foundation in fact; nor, he said, can the free nations be encouraged to feel there is any decisive change in the differences that have kept the world in a state of continuing crisis.

The official said the recent "interview" given by Premier Stalin to the Russian organ Pravda indicated, on analysis, no change in basic Russian policy of aggressive designs on the rest of the world.

Thug Seized After Flight Via Tunnel

BALTIMORE, March 3 (INS)—Slender, 39-year-old Joseph Holmes, the convict who tunneled 70 feet to freedom from the Maryland State Penitentiary, was captured tonight in a downtown bowling alley at the end of a running gun battle with police.

Patrolman Frank Plunkett said Holmes shoved a gun in his stomach and pulled the trigger twice after the officer stopped the fugitive for questioning about a holdup.

"I heard the hammer click twice," Plunkett said. "Then I pulled my gun and Holmes ran."

SHOTS EXCHANGED

The officer fired several shots at the fleeing convict, and Holmes fired at Plunkett three times in return.

Holmes, known as Baltimore's "Dinnertime Bandit," was captured as he raced up the steps of the bowling alley, pursued by Detective Sgt. James Downs and passers-by.

The screams of the woman Holmes robbed started the chase.

ADMITS IDENTITY

Holmes admitted his identity and later at police headquarters told questioners:

"I worked for months to dig the tunnel.

"I got rid of the dirt and sand by flushing it down the toilet in the cell."

Authorities estimated the slender burglar got rid of nine tons of dirt in digging his way from his cell into the ground, under the prison wall and most and emerging outside the wall.

When his escape was discovered last February 18 Warden Edwin T. Swenson called it "the most fantastic I've ever seen."

Museum List Reaches "D" In 20 Years

LONDON, March 3 (Reuters)—Twelve men have been working on a new catalogue for the British Museum for 20 years. They have just got up to the letter "D"—and may not reach "Z" before 1975.

"It's like writing a novel that has no ending," said Noel Sharp, editor of the catalogue, who has been on the Museum's staff since 1929.

He explained that the new (or not-so-new) catalogue will ultimately be spread over 250 volumes with 18,500 entries to each volume.

All of the thousands upon thousands of objects housed in the museum have to be included.

The British Museum adds one mile of shelving to its exhibition rooms every year.

The gigantic collection of exhibits has taken nearly 200 years to complete. It represents a history of man's achievement, mental and physical, since history began.

The British Museum was blitzed several times during the war. In May, 1941, ten of the upper galleries were destroyed. Fire destroyed more than 150,000 books. Total damage was estimated at £500,000 ($1,400,000).

Dismal Medical Tent "Paradise" for Survivors Of Ambushed American Artillery Unit at Wonju

WONJU AIRSTRIP, Korea, March 3 (AP).—"This is paradise right here," said the young corporal, looking up from his stretcher in the dark medical tent at the Wonju Airstrip.

This blond, fuzzy-faced boy of 19, with the high cheekbones of hunger, and a black-bearded 35-year-old private on the next stretcher, are the only known survivors of a motorized American artillery unit that was annihilated [illegible] mid-February by the Chinese north of Hoengsong.

The survivors were located late today by the 1st Marine Division tankers who blasted up the road in an attack on the Chinese.

STORY OF TERROR

In the medical tent, lit by dim bulbs and reeking of carbolic acid, they told a story of two days of terror and 15 days of slow agony from wounds as they lay in a freezing mud hut. They were caught in the Chinese offensive which the 8th Army repulsed.

The young corporal has a Chinese bullet in his leg from the convoy ambush, to match another he got last Autumn 15 miles from the Manchurian border. His feet are badly frostbitten.

The older man was shot in both [illegible]. The doctors say his frostbitten feet are worse than his companion's.

The two men survived the massacre of their field artillery battery by playing dead after being shot. They crawled to a hut and Chinese who found them there let them live.

They spent 15 days in the hut with no heat, in temperatures well below freezing.

The two men's wounded legs were soon frostbitten. Their only food was filthy, cooked rice that Chinese soldiers scraped from the ground around their camp fires and traded for the Americans' clothing.

"I suppose we were lucky. They could have just taken our clothes if they wanted them," the corporal said.

The corporal told this story of his escape:

[illegible] M-1 against my head and pulled the trigger.

"The bullet creased my skull—I could feel it going through my hair. The muzzle blast nearly tore my eardrums out. I flopped over and pretended I was dead. The Chink thought I was and went away."

Both men lay in the wreckage of their convoy, hearing the Chinese drive away all the vehicles that could still run.

The private, too, was almost murdered.

"The Chinks put a pistol to my head as I lay under the jeep. I felt the blast and something went right down past my cheek," he said. "I threw myself into a gully and prayed. I don't know whether God answered my prayers or whatever, but after a while they went away and I crawled about 500 feet to a Korean mud hut."

Several hours later the corporal joined him there—directed to the hut by a merciful Chinese soldier who saw that he was still living.

Oddities

PARIS, March 3 (Reuters).—Skiers crossing the Col de Porte Pass in the French Alps yesterday suddenly saw a piece of wood pierce the snow in front of them and waggle excitedly.

Coming closer they recognized it as a broom handle. Digging with their bare hands they uncovered a chimney pot.

Down the chimney, Mrs. Germaine Vandaelle caught her first glimpse of daylight for three days. She had been buried in her tiny mountain Chalet since a snowstorm Tuesday night. She was unharmed.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., March 3 (INS). — Two "snowmakers" hired by the City of Santa Barbara to seed clouds were recovering today after being snowbound for two days in their own supersnow job.

The two, Joseph Vowel and Joseph Vittini, of the North American Weather Consultants of Pasadena, were brought down from Mount Figueroa by a rescue party that had to go through four-foot drifts with a bulldozer.

"Every time we turned our silver iodide dispenser on," the pair said, "we found ourselves in the midst of a swirling snowstorm."

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 3 (Reuters).—Stalwart listeners to the United Nations' Economic and Social Council debates were convulsed in their seats yesterday to hear Russian delegate Pavel Chernickev say, in the English translation:

"The human flesh ration in Britain is now 25 cents per week."

What he said and what the translator meant, of course—was "the meat ration for human consumption."

Uncle Wiggily Story

By Howard Garis

OUT OF THE BED

Beneath the blankets on Uncle Wiggily's bed, Bunty, the cute little orphan rabbit, was soon so warm that she felt sure she would not catch cold.

The rubber bag, with cold water in it (water that had once been hot), had opened and splashed Bunty. But Uncle Wiggily had quickly told Bunty to jump into bed with him and this she had done.

"Do you think I will catch your cold, Uncle Wiggily?" Bunty asked as she snuggled beneath the blankets closer to the jolly rabbit gentleman with the pink, twinkling nose.

"Oh, no, I do not believe so, Bunty," answered Uncle Wiggily. "I really think I am not going to—not going to—Aker—Aker—"

"Don't tell me you are going to sneeze, Uncle Wiggily!" Bunty tried to sit up but there were too many bed clothes over her and the rabbit gentleman. "Please don't sneeze!"

"No, my dear, I—er—I—er—I just want to say I am looking for my handkerchief—that's it—my handkerchief. I am now so warm and cosy that the water is dripping from my nose and I want to wipe it off."

"Then your cold must be all better, Uncle Wiggily. And you are sweating, or, perspiring, as the Lady Mouse Teacher of Hollow Tree School would call it."

"That is right, Bunty. But are you all right?"

"Oh, yes, Uncle Wiggily. I'm fine! I'm all dry now and I don't hear Buster coming after me in the hide-and-go-seek game. He never thought I would hide under your bed."

"I didn't, either, Bunty. But how is it that you and Buster are staying home from school?"

"School is out," said the orphan rabbit. "This is afternoon, Uncle Wiggily. Buster and I have been home from school more than an hour. You must have gone to sleep after you were pulled out of the ice hole of Frog Pond and put to bed. You must have fallen asleep."

"Yes, Bunty, I suppose so. That catnip and sassafras tea and the hot water bag made me drowsy. I think I may get up now and go down to supper when Nurse Jane gets it ready."

"Yes, Uncle Wiggily. I am getting hungry myself. Let's get up!"

"All right, Bunty. You hop out of bed and go downstairs. I'll come down as soon as I take off my pajamas and get dressed. Hop out."

Bunty was ready to hop out of bed when, suddenly, she crawled back in and whispered:

"Hush! Someone is coming. Maybe it's Buster!"

But it wasn't Buster. It was Nurse Jane. Uncle Wiggily quickly pulled the covers over himself and Bunty. Nurse Jane entered the room softly. She looked at the bed. She saw all the covers on the bed.

"Uncle Wiggily must be asleep," she whispered. "I'll let him sleep. But he kicked the hot water bag out of the bed. And the cork came loose. I suppose the water got cold. Never mind. I'll go down and put more hot water in the bag and bring it back."

"This is my chance to get out of bed, Uncle Wiggily," whispered Bunty. "I think I hear Buster coming. He can't find me. Where else can I hide?"

"Go in Nurse Jane's room," said Mr. Longears. "Hop out of my bed and go to Nurse Jane's room. I'll come with you. I don't want any more hot water bags on my hind paws. I'll heap up the covers on my bed. Nurse Jane will think I am still under them. But you and I will go hide in her room. Hurry!"

Uncle Wiggily and Bunty hopped out of bed. They hopped through the hall. Soon they were both in Nurse Jane's bed and Buster was coming up the stairs.

What happened next will be told on Tuesday if the auto will give the pussy cat a ride down to the store to buy some bird seed for the puppy dog.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

If North and South in the following deal had thoroughly understood each other, they scarcely would have bid so high—but South should have profited by the mixup.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♥	3 ♠	4 ♥	Pass
4 N.T.	Pass	5 ♣	Pass
5 N.T.	Pass	6 ♣	Pass
6 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

When North jumped to four hearts he was using the little-known convention (the double raise of an opening two-bid) which announces good trump support but denies any card as high as a king, or even a singleton.

The object of this convention is to keep partner from making a fruitless slam try. Obviously, however, South did not know or play this convention—few players do—and so went out for the slam.

A diamond lead by West would have made South's position hopeless, but West unwisely decided to open a trump. Declarer won in his own hand and laid down the spade king, to provide a discard for his low diamond. West won and promptly made another error! No doubt feeling that he might as well "give declarer what was his in any case," West returned the spade jack.

This gave declarer a precious entry to dummy, but he wasted it! Intent on getting out the trumps, he cashed the heart queen, and only then did he try the club finesse. Its success was now of no value, because East's extreme length in clubs was good for a trick, no matter how South manoeuvered.

It is easy to see that South would have brought home the contract if he had taken the club finesse immediately after West's play of the spade, and a second club finesse upon returning to dummy with the heart queen.

CHAPTER XV—Continued

"Ah, no, monsieur," said the maid. "Madame Mercatel is the mother of Monsieur Bernard. She is a brave woman, is Madame Mercatel. She has suffered greatly."

"Tell me about her," said Hilary. He suppressed the memory of his mother's irritable voice telling him that real gentlefolk never gossiped with servants.

The maid was only too willing to gossip. Monsieur le Baron, she told Hilary who had the big chateau over there—but now it was pulled down—had had five daughters and no sons. Monsieur could imagine the difficulty of finding dowries for five daughters—and Monsieur le Baron had never been a one to stint himself of any thing. Consequently monsieur would not be surprised to hear that when it came to getting the youngest daughter married, Monsieur Mercatel le Baron was only too glad to accept the offer of Monsieur Mercatel who was wealthy. It was true, but for all that, only a tradesman.

And at the end of the war—the first war, monsieur would understand—well, no one knew quite what had happened but Monsieur Mercatel had lost all his money and shot himself. What a disgrace for the family. What a tragedy for the widow! And poor Monsieur Bernard, who must leave his studies and take to teaching to help support his mother! "Ah, he is a dutiful son, is Monsieur Bernard. But his mother—there is a magnificent woman. There are few people in this town who cannot tell you of the kindness of Madame Mercatel," and then without a pause, "and so monsieur will go and see the castle this morning?"

"No, not this morning," said Hilary abruptly. He was shy of probing around the home of the man he was to meet later in the day.

It was clear that she had nothing else to suggest, and Hilary dropped his cigarette into his cup, got up and went out.

Now to start buying the gloves, he said to himself. He picked out a small shop that showed children's pinafores intermingled with balls of knitting wool and walked in. The dark-haired middle-aged woman behind the counter gazed expectantly at Hilary.

"Have you any children's gloves?" he asked.

"For a child of what age?" asked the woman.

"About six," said Hilary, and the woman pulled out a drawer, slapped it down on the counter before him and said, "All these are suitable for a child of six."

"All these," did not, after all, amount to very much. Hilary turned them over dubiously and said, "What I was really looking for was something gay—bright red, for instance."

"Wait," said the woman and pulled out another drawer, "I believe—" she said, turning its contents over, then, "Yes, I thought I had a pair. Here, monsieur," and she pulled out a pair of scarlet knitted gloves.

"Yes, that's the thing," said Hilary. "I will take them. How much are they?"

The woman took the gloves back and held them consideringly in her hand. "A hundred francs," she said. It was not quite a statement, not quite a question, and Hilary protested, "That's a lot of money for such a little pair of gloves."

But the woman had made up her mind. "One hundred francs," she repeated, and Hilary produced a note.

The woman said, "And the tickets?"

"I don't understand," said Hilary.

The woman said wearily, "The gloves are rationed, monsieur."

"Oh," said Hilary, "I didn't know." The woman began to put the drawers away again and Hilary was left, the limp note hanging from his fingers, protesting to her back, "You see, I'm English—a visitor. They don't give us tickets. I don't know if there's anything that can be done?"

She picked up the gloves and wrapped them in a torn piece of white paper. Still not looking at Hilary, she said, "I made a mistake, monsieur. The price of the gloves is one hundred and fifty francs," and stood waiting, the parcel in her hand.

Slowly, reluctantly, Hilary opened his wallet again and took out another note. I oughtn't to do this, he told himself, but it seems to be the same thing everywhere. Besides it's not for myself—I've got to have the gloves. That's what everyone says, that they've got to have it. He found that he wanted to tell the woman that the gloves were for a little orphan, that the black-market transaction was different from any other, and ashamed, he thrust the parcel into his pocket, said coldly, "Thank you very much, madame," and left the shop.

Still it was only quarter-past 11. He noticed, as he neared the hotel, that on the opposite side of its archway was a cafe, apparently belonging to the establishment. Thank God, he said, realizing gratefully that now there was something other than the bedroom or the street, somewhere he could sit and read.

So here Hilary passed the rest of the morning.

Suddenly, he longed for Pierre. If Pierre were here, everything would be all right. If Pierre were here, the boy would be his and perhaps even today they would take him and go.

YATES STREET

BEHIND THE SIGNS WITH Jim Nesbitt

The man whose name is perpetuated in Yates Street arrived in Victoria more than a century ago.

James Yates was born in 1819 in Linlithgow, Scotland. He reached Victoria in 1849 in the barque, Harpooner. He was an articled clerk in the Hudson's Bay Company, but he was irked by the lack of freedom and so he left the service — and as a result had to leave Victoria for a time, otherwise he would be thrown into the bastion.

Later he returned to Victoria and made money as an independent trader. In 1855 he was elected to the first Legislative Council of Vancouver Island. He returned to Scotland to retire and there he died in 1900.

Dr. J. S. Helmcken, in his reminiscences, says of Yates: "He was a powerful, contankerous being — a dark-colored Scotsman. Mrs. Yates was a nice, active, agreeable, pleasant little woman with auburn hair."

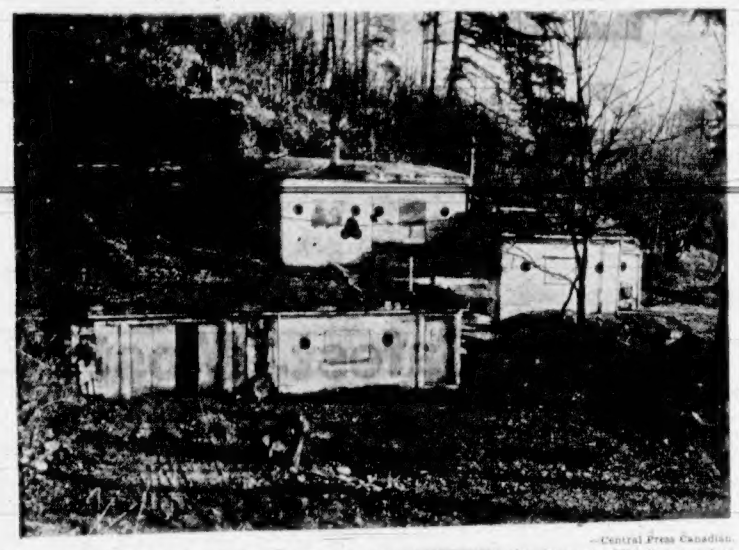
"Home, Sweet Home" Was Never Like This



—Central Press Canadian.

After the dawn of the atomic age, someone wrote a book called "No Place to Hide"—meaning from the A-bomb. To disprove this statement, John Gerlicher, a welder for a steel construction company, found some place . . . a hole in a hillside at Dwamish, near Seattle, where Gerlicher has constructed a five-room steel and concrete home for his wife and eight-year-old son. John built his fortress domicile of 800 hot-water tanks, welded together and filled with concrete. He believes it will resist anything but a direct hit. Seen above is an exterior view of the house, which when closed up tight looks like a bank vault.

Reaches 70 Friday

Ailing, Aging Bevin Facing Decision

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—Ernest Bevin, a sick and tired old man, reaches 70 this Friday amid rumors he may quit soon as Britain's Foreign Secretary.

Bevin faces a great personal decision: Should he make way for a younger and more vigorous man?

The decision will be Mr. Bevin's. Prime Minister Clement Attlee wants his old friend to stay as long as he feels his health will permit.

For the last three or four years the once-husky Cabinet member has been battling one ailment after the other. He suffers from asthma and a bad heart. He is just getting back to work after a bout with pneumonia.

DETERMINED

Friends say he is determined to keep hacking away at world problems from the Foreign Office as long as he can.

Said one friend:

"He won't go until he is carried out feet first—or the Government loses in an election."

Yet, others say: "You never can tell. He might decide that the responsibility is so great he just can't cope with it physically any longer."

There still are a lot of things the former dock hand would like to do.

He'd like to sit in at the next meeting of the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and Russia. He'd like to see the Korean war settled. He's also deeply interested in the Middle East.

Mr. Bevin is much more to the Labor Government than a foreign secretary. He uses his powerful influence in the Cabinet to sway policy at home as well as abroad.

Mr. Bevin put together the 8,000,000-strong Trades Union Congress, keystone of the Labor Party's voting strength. When he talks, the working men listen.

If Mr. Bevin should decide to quit, the three most likely candidates for the job are Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, 63; Home Secretary Chuter Ede, 68; and Colonial Secretary James Griffiths, 61.

Los Alamos Emerging As Model Community

Los Alamos, N.M., headquarters of the U.S. atomic energy research program, is perhaps the most lethal spot on earth and yet it is one of the most peace-loving.

The following article tells what its citizens—dedicated to peace have accomplished in making the out-of-the-way town which may hold the key to national survival in this atomic age a model American community.

LOS ALAMOS, N.M., March 3 (INS).—Little Los Alamos, which may hold the key to national survival or destruction in the atomic age, is emerging today as a model American community whose residents are dedicated to peace.

If it had to be re-christened, Paradox might be the name to suit it best.

This pastel town of 11,000, hidden away among the mesa land of New Mexico, is perhaps the most lethal spot on earth as the heart of one of America's great atomic research and weapons testing projects. Yet it is one of the most peace-loving.

DANGEROUS AREA

Many consider it one of the most dangerous areas known to man, and anxious residents for hundreds of miles around keep swamping newspaper and police switchboards with hurried calls every time they hear an unexplained bang or rumble. Yet it has an envied safety record and is trying for new honors.

For nearly five years, the town has not had a single traffic accident.

In the recent 27th annual National Fire Prevention Week contest, Los Alamos received fourth place honors among 3,700 municipalities.

Given the original job of testing a mighty weapon of death, its citizens also have been trying to make the most out of life and are getting there, as evidenced by the fun and pleasure facilities Los Alamos now boasts after an eight-year struggle for entertainment.

RECREATION

Today there are two movie houses in town, nearly 100 clubs and organizations, a 36-piece symphony orchestra made up of housewives, students and atomic employees, a little opera company and facilities for golf, hunting and fishing. Mathematician Leslie Peck was a violin soloist and physicist Robert Richtmeyer a viola artist at the first symphony concert. Los Alamos has its own radio station and a new weekly newspaper.

Education of the 3,640 children is a problem, but high standards have been maintained in the transition of peaceful mesa to atomic centre.

The one-room schoolhouse originally on the site has been expanded to seven schools. Two more are under construction and a third is on the drawing boards.

Housing is still a problem, but it is believed the tide may turn next year. Average annual earnings of production workers is $3,500, but they can't buy their own homes. The Government has a monopoly on the land and individuals cannot own real estate.

Probe Death Of Soldier

CALGARY, March 3 (CP).—Military authorities and police today are making extensive enquiries into circumstances surrounding the death of Pte. Robert Sydney Ford, 18, whose body was found wedged in a dumb waiter in a building at Currie Barracks yesterday.

Investigations are reported to have disclosed that a rope suspending the waiter in the shaft had been cut but the probe has not yet uncovered who cut it and the instrument used has not been located.

An inquest into Ford's death was opened today and was postponed indefinitely after the coroner's jury viewed the body.

Ford, whose home was at Hamilton, Ont., was a member of a work party detailed to clean out a building Thursday evening.

Investigations have disclosed that despite a warning to stay away from the dumb waiter Ford got into it and was pulling himself up and down until the waiter became stuck in the shaft between the first and second floors.

The body was found at the basement level in the dumb waiter shaft at 7:30 a.m. Friday. His head was wedged between the dumb waiter and the wall of the shaft with death being due to strangulation.

New Bible Colorful, Easy to Read

CHICAGO, March 3 (AP).—A young priest has brought out one of the oldest printed books—the Bible—in colorful modern dress.

His aim was to make the volume as eye-catching and easy to read as 1951-style newspapers and pictorial magazines.

The result is the new Holy Family edition of the Roman Catholic Bible.

The publishers wanted an attractive book. What they got, in their words, was "the first Catholic Bible in many decades that escapes the sombre, forbidding appearance so typical of most editions of the Scriptures."

The priest who bossed the thorough-going transformation task is strapping, 34-year-old, sandy-haired Father John P. O'Connell. Samuel Cardinal Stritch, head of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago, assigned him to the editor's job in 1948.

He labored, usually six days a week, for two and a half years.

"Up to 30 years ago every family had a Bible," Father O'Connell says, "it was a fixture in the furnishings of every home. But it was sombre in appearance and funereal in tone."

Father O'Connell's mission, as he saw it, was to put the Good Book back in its once-honored place in the parlor.

There is no change in the text, but there is a radical change in format, typography and illustration.

The young editor drew inspiration from newspapers and magazines. He liked the way they handled maps and photographs. He consulted lay experts in printing and art, and church authorities in Biblical fields.

The text is printed in large-size type. Biblical verses are grouped into paragraphs. Each paragraph has a subhead. It is easy to read.

New Cream Raises Hopes, if Not Hair

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP). — Is the baldheaded man about to be emancipated?

Has medicine, after 5,000 years of complete failure—mostly unadulterated fakery—come up with a magic hormone that will transform

"HOPE SPRINGS . . ."

a slimy pate into a Samsonian growth of beauty?

If it has, then millions of baldies are due for new lives.

The cause of all this is a press announcement made a few days ago by the United Research Laboratories, Philadelphia, a small chemical concern. The announcement said they had isolated a new hormone from the pituitary gland in the brain.

Rubbed on the heads of two men who had been bald for five years, this hormone, the announcement said, induced growth of somewhat sparse hair to a length of half an inch in five weeks, and that it was not fuzz but real hair. Identities of the men and the doctors giving the hormone were refused.

CREAM PREPARATION

This is the first claim for a specific hair hormone—for the one thing all baldies have dreamed. It comes in a cream. You just rub it on the bald spot and along comes the hair.

However, the Philadelphia hormone is not on the market, and won't be unless the United States food and drug administration says the claims are true.

And the United Research people say they won't ask for a ruling until other scientific institutions support the hair-growing claims.

Only the pituitary hormones—not the new one but those previously known—have put on any hair, and thus far only in a special type of baldness known as alopecia.

I am getting phone calls about the new hormone, day and night. What do I think? I have no predictions.

I've done a lot of investigating of the Philadelphia company and of the scientific records. I have found nothing to rule out the possibility that a new hormone may have been discovered and that it affects hair. Nor is there any proof yet that this hormone helps bald men.

Of course, what the doctors say isn't going to discourage us baldies.

Ground Training Gets Start Here In Refresher Course for Pilots

MILITARY ACTIVITIES

By TREVOR COLLINS

A refresher course for World War pilots is now under way in Victoria, Myles Hague, president of the Victoria Flying Club, announced yesterday.

The R.C.A.F. is sponsoring the course, but actual flying and ground school instruction will be in the hands of the local flying club. Instructors David Filby and Max Perkins will train the pilots.

The course was supposed to start last November when a Chipmunk training plane was expected from Toronto. Arrival of the plane was delayed and the course postponed.

Then word arrived that the plane was on its way, but it only got as far as Trenton, Ont., where it was grounded with engine trouble. Again the course was delayed.

PILOTS READY

Meanwhile, eight Victoria pilots received medical examination and were screened by the air force to start the course, which gives 30 hours of flying and 30 hours of ground school.

Mr. Hague decided the men might just as well start their ground school, and he and the students decided on Thursdays for a training day.

Yesterday, word was received from the air force that the Chipmunk was again serviceable and could be ferried to Patricia Bay as soon as a pilot was available.

Spare parts and other equipment are already available at the flying club and actual training on the craft will start shortly after it arrives.

Old Photographs Sought By Victoria High School

Wanted: Photographs in any way associated with Victoria High School during the period 1876-1914.

And they're needed for a special occasion—the 75th anniversary of the high school, oldest in the province.

A special celebration June 1 and 2 will mark the occasion and it is expected that thousands of the old high school alumni will return for a look at the school.

Photographs of old classes and scenes will be flashed on the screen, but more are needed by Miss H. Sargent, who is in charge of historical research for the anniversary. Return of the pictures is guaranteed but all senders should mark their addresses on the back of the photos.

Program for the two-day event will include two evening pageants depicting the history of the school since its establishment in 1876. Miss Ella J. Cameron will direct the productions.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts Wood will direct the singing of songs from the last century, and varied dancing styles will be presented by a group under the instruction of Sheila Stanley.

Chairmen of the anniversary committee will be Laurie Wallace and Douglas Wallis.

OPEN NEW TRACK

On Saturday afternoon, June 2, a meet will be staged to officially open the new quarter-mile cinder track which will make the school [illegible] a stadium and cinder track.

A tea will be held on the same afternoon on the grass at the east side of the building if the weather permits.

The Isle of Man in the Irish Sea has six historical periods—pre-historic, Norse, Derby, Keltic, Scottish and Modern.

Celebrate 30th Anniversary

By Dorothy Wrotnowski, Social Editor

Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club will celebrate their 30th anniversary at a banquet in the Mirror Room of the Monterey on March 10, when all charter members will be welcome as special guests.

On Sunday, March 11, a birthday tea will be held in the clubrooms when new members of the year will be honored.

The Club was originally known as Kumtuks, and was organized in 1921 by Miss Lottie Bowron. The name Kumtuks, which is Chinook for "to know, understand, knowledge and acquaintance," was changed when the Club joined the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women.

The Club which was formed with 24 members, now has a membership of 110. There are 27 branches in the province.

At the Birthday Banquet, the Hon. Nancy Hodges, named the woman of the year at the biennial conference last year, will be the guest speaker.

Colonist photos by Bud Kinsman and Jim Ryan.

Three charter members of the Club, left to right: Mrs. K. Paterson, only honorary member and a past president; Miss Alma Russell, first treasurer of the Club, and Miss Tephi Taylor.

New York Reverses Two-Week Trend

By The Associated Press

Business on Wall Street the week was conducted under wraps.

The volume of trading came to 8,574,000 shares. For a week not containing a holiday, it was the slowest in six months.

And price-wise the stock market did very little on average, a net gain of a few cents.

But the week was significant because it reversed a two-week trend and placed the market only slightly below the highest point of 1950-51. That level, in turn, is the best in more than 20 years.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 30 cents on the week and ended at $90.00, [illegible] 90 cents below that 20-year top reached only three weeks ago.

The volume yesterday came to 620,000 shares, the lowest since November 4. Last Saturday trading amounted to 680,000 shares.

TORONTO SLOW

The strong advance of the last two sessions slowed to a snail's pace in the short Saturday session of the Toronto Stock Exchange. Prices moved upward but gains were small.

Base metals, which led the start of the advance last Wednesday, turned slightly lower. The rest of the market [illegible]

[illegible] industrials, Mandam and Quebec Malartic [illegible] bucked the trend and climbed [illegible] in brisk trading. Falconbridge and United Keno Hill were [illegible] Canadian Flin Flon, the feature for the last two days, was [illegible] as Bralorne and oils, a fraction of Friday's activity.

Western Oils added [illegible] Jupiter [illegible] mixed and quiet.

MONTREAL FIRMER

In Montreal, securities were a little firmer. Trading remained slow.

[illegible] was a follow-up to Friday's [illegible]

Papers, senior oils and the industrial section gave a steady to stronger appearance.

A small group of utilities moved almost solidly to the plus column, but senior metals and banks were a shade easier.

Mines also pushed higher in dull trading. Western oils were mainly unchanged.

RYE WEAKER

Rye was the weak spot on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange as American selling sent prices to lower levels. Oats, barley and flax [illegible]

Firm Employees Share $100,000 From Profits

TORONTO, March 3 (CP).—Employees of Supreme Aluminum Industries, Ltd., are getting $100,000 or more than 40 per cent of this year's profits out of the company's profit-sharing plan.

The plan applies to all employees with more than two years' service—115 this year. The average profit shared by each employee over the three years it has been in effect has been $696 a year. On an hourly basis this works out at 30 cents an hour for the average employee, with some getting 61 cents.

About one-third of the shared profits are distributed in cash at Christmas and the rest goes into a profit-sharing and retirement fund.

If an employee leaves, he gets half the money which the company has put into the fund for him, plus interest and the other half remains in the fund for the benefit of remaining employees.

H. V. Lush, president, states that an average employee will have to his credit at the end of another 20 years, a total of $26,102. In addition he will have received, based on present Christmas distribution, another $3,000.

The plan includes employee contributions of not more than $150 a year and a top company contribution of a little more than 4½ times that of the employees. The $100,000 being distributed this year is aside from employee contributions, which were $14,305.

Mr. Lush said that any success his company, which makes cooking utensils, has attained "is largely due to a deep-rooted desire to share our successes with our employees."

Metals Freeze Troubles U.S.

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP).—Pricing troubles under the general freeze order in the United States are tightening the supply squeeze in some non-ferrous metals.

Custom smelters of copper, for example, report they cannot obtain enough scrap copper for refining because they are unable to pay the prices asked and still sell refined at the frozen price of 24½ cents a pound.

For a while brass ingot makers who could pay more for scrap absorbed much of the supply which normally went to the refiners. But even the ingot makers now are reported having trouble getting scrap at prices they can afford. A scrap price ceiling order to ease the situation is believed brewing at Washington.

In zinc, it's a question of foreign buyers being able to pay higher prices for zinc concentrates and therefore diverting supplies which normally come to American smelters. Imports of lead to the United States have dropped for the same reason.

Meantime, pressing industrial demand for the major metals in United States shows no letup despite Government-ordered cutbacks in non-defence uses.

Non-Negotiable Bond Issue Hits Inflation

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP).—The United States Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board tonight announced a settlement of their fight over ways to halt inflation.

It calls for issuance of by the Treasury of billions of dollars of a new type of non-marketable bonds, bearing more interest than the old type.

The hope was expressed that banks, insurance companies and other lending institutions would exchange these bonds for certain outstanding Treasury issues. The outstanding issues in question total $19,000,000,000,000, but it is not expected that all of them will be exchanged. Since the new bonds cannot be cashed in until maturity, the idea is that curbs will thus be placed on inflationary tendencies.

EXCHANGE ISSUE

The bonds, bearing 2¾ per cent interest, payable semi-annually, will be offered in exchange for outstanding 2½ per cent Treasury bonds maturing June 15 and December 15, 1967-72.

The new agreement offers what officials hope will be a successful way out of an impasse. By offering a bit more interest, the Government hopes to encourage banks and other financial institutions to hold Government securities over a long period, thus "sterilizing" large sums which otherwise would add to inflationary fires.

KING'S LYNN, Norfolk, England (CP).—Ship's biscuits baked in 1883 are to be an exhibit at King's Lynn museum during the festival of Britain from May to September this year.

Foreign Exchange

MONTREAL, March 3 (CP).—The American dollar today closed at 4 31/32 per cent premium in terms of Canadian dollar, unchanged from Friday's close. That is, it took $1.04 31/32 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.93 1 16, also unchanged.

Production of Tinplate Reaches Record High

THE HAGUE, March 3 (AP).—The international tin study group today announced world tinplate production in 1950 reached a record high of 5,703,000 tons, compared with 6,325,000 the previous year.

The greatest rise in output was in the United States, from 3,296,870 tons in 1949 to 4,243,00 tons in 1950.

But 1950 production also was considerably higher in Britain at 863,100 tons, against 620,100 tons in 1949.

In Canada it was at about 213,000 tons compared with 161,579 tons in 1949 and in Germany 201,628 tons, against 155,000 tons.

The term "Indian Summer" originated with the early settlers in New England, who got it from the Indian tribes.

Free Bus Rides Appreciated

Colonist Photo

Offer of free bus rides for Hudson's Bay Company shoppers was a timely gesture on the part of H.B.C. officials yesterday when prospective "Bay Day" customers faced driving sleet and snow. Company arranged free transportation for thousands of residents of Greater Victoria to attend the annual "Bay Day" at the department store. One of the special fleet of buses is shown discharging its load of shoppers. Despite weather conditions, H.B.C. officials say volume of business was heavy.

A Modern School Comes to Granite Bay

By HELEN WELLS

THE OLD "TEACHERAGE" at Granite Bay, built in 1911

A FEW hundred yards from the wharf at Granite Bay stands a pretty little green building with a red roof and white trim. It's a brand new school and will soon be opened to Miss Jean Marshall and her 11 pupils.

The one-room building was built at a cost of $5,000 and will offer the best in educational facilities to the children of this somewhat isolated community.

Close by stands the old school, a weather beaten log and shake structure which has served Granite Bay as a seat of education and the centre of community life for the past 40 years.

In 1911 the Government made a grant of $100 to the residents of Granite Bay to build up and equip a one-room school and a three-room teacherage.

BUILT BY HAND

Alfred and Emil Luoma and Arthur Sterfors, pioneer residents, got together and built the school entirely by hand. They went into the nearby forest, which was in the process of being logged by the Hastings Timber Company, and cut cedar logs and shakes and hauled them to the school site with horses and men.

They labored diligently in their spare time and by September of that year the buildings were completed and ready for occupancy.

Then the ladies of the community took over. From their own homes they procured furniture, bedding, rugs and curtains for the teacherage. By the time they were finished, they had produced a cozy attractive home for Miss Morrow, the first teacher, when she arrived to undertake the education of 12 of the pioneers' children.

The tiny house was home for a number of teachers. One of them was a Mrs. McDonald, who taught at Granite Bay about 30 years ago. Mrs. McDonald and her children were really welcomed by the residents of the community. Her [illegible] brood brought the number of pupils up to the limit required to keep the school in operation.

NOT ENOUGH

Again in about 1933 when Mr. Matheson was teacher, the school was in danger of closing due to lack of pupils. However, a little girl whose parents resided several miles south of Granite Bay came to live with one of the local families and attended the school so that the required number was attained and the school remained open until 1937.

It was reopened about [illegible] years later and since then the teacher has lived with one of the families.

Granite Bay is a snug little harbor situated at the [illegible] western tip of Quadra Island, about 135 miles north of Vancouver. Among the first residents to settle in the area were the families of [illegible] Larson, [illegible] and [illegible] Stramberg. All but one [illegible] came from Finland between [illegible] and 1909.

Stramberg, a blacksmith by trade, came from Eastern Canada and married a daughter of W[illegible] in 1910. They settled down to farm in the district where they still reside.

GRANITE BAY

From the turn of the century until about 1916, Granite Bay was the site of two small camps and a booming ground for the old Hastings Timber Company. Between 400 and 500 men were employed there at one time. It was a locomotive, known as "Curley," now on display at the Exhibition Gardens in Vancouver, [illegible] used to haul the logs from the woods down to the beach.

The last of the old logging railroad grade have been taken out and a new [illegible] road which winds its way towards the southern part of Quadra Island. Only two and a half miles are needed to complete a road system which would link all the settlements of South Quadra with Granite Bay. Residents of the island are looking forward to the day when this will become a reality.

There is still a considerable quantity of timber on Quadra Island. The Coal Creek Logging Company, a truck logging outfit, has been in operation near Granite Bay since 1944 and there are several other smaller outfits scattered here and there.

OLD RESIDENTS

Henry Twidle was Granite Bay's first school secretary. He and his wife operated the general store from 1911 to 1940. The late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bull ran the post office for 30 years. Their son Jack was one of the first children to attend the school.

The present postmaster is R. J. Luoma, one of the eight sons of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Luoma and another of the school's early pupils.

Since the introduction of the Cameron Plan in 1946 the school has been a part of School District 72, which covers a large area adjacent to Campbell River. Mrs. R. J. Luoma was recently elected to the board of trustees, the first woman to serve in this capacity.

Soon the old log cabin school will be no more. Another link with the past will have been severed. Its inadequacies and inconveniences will be forgotten, but it will remain in the memory of the old-timers as a tribute to the pioneers who worked [illegible] to bring education to the children of the district.

THIS WEEK'S COVER

This week's cover is a view of Cameron Lake, Vancouver Island, taken from the east end of the lake. Ever since settlers arrived at Alberni, Cameron Lake has seen travelers come and go, yet the lake itself retains much of its natural beauty.

Among regular travelers, mounted mail carriers first looked down on the lake from the west end as they crossed over the saddle from Home Lake and at one time there stood in the saddle a tree on which these men had cut marks to record the number of trips they had made with the mail. Later a road was put through along the north shore of the lake. This road gave way to the railroad when the E. & N. railway went through and a new road was built along the south shore of the lake. The latter has become the present highway.

Despite the heavy volume of highway traffic, wildlife is still plentiful and virgin timber still stands in Cathedral Grove at the west end of the lake.

Cameron Lake is 550 feet above sea level and the surrounding hills range in elevation up to 3,000 feet. An auto court and small hotel provide accommodation at the west end of the lake.

HOLDING YOUR OWN

Mrs. Isabel Dix, aged 22, of Olney, Buckinghamshire, beat the women of Liberal, Kansas, U.S., in the international pancake race.

We may not shine at cricket, we may not shine at golf.
Our boxers seem to take it on the chin.
On football fields in foreign parts the lesser breeds prevail.
In fact there's nothing much that we can win.
The French excel at Rugger, the Poles are passing squash.
At tennis we can never save our face.
But thanks to Mrs. Dix, aged 22, of Olney, Bucks,
By gad, sir, we have won the pancake race.

It seems the fate of Englishmen to give the world at large
The games that we invented long ago.
Believing that we cannot lose we do not stint our help.
Most willingly we teach them all we know.

We taught them how to use a bat and how to kick a ball.
And how to make a pass and score a try.
We taught them how to use a [illegible] and what is our reward?
They use a right and punch us in the eye.

This lesson should be heeded before it is too late.
No more should we expose ourselves to shame.
But keep a few ex[illegible] things like croquet to ourselves
In case we lose an international game.
We still can shove our ha'pennies and play our games of darts
And win them all without a loss of face.
But if the girls of Kansas start intensive training now
Next year, sir, we [illegible] lose the pancake race.

HATS OFF

Answering a man's question, "When should I lift my hat to women?" a woman columnist replies that he should lift it when he meets or parts from a woman, when he is passing a woman he knows, when he is walking with a man who speaks to a woman, when he is walking with a woman who speaks to another man, and when he enters a lift in a private block of flats.

Although this may be a useful guide to correct behavior it still does not answer the question, "Why should men be expected to raise their hats to women at all?"

Is it supposed to be a tribute to their beauty, which is often absent, an acknowledgment that they are the weaker sex, when most doctors will tell you they are as strong as horses, or is it a mark of respect?

If it is a mark of respect this classes women with the National Anthem and funerals, but still does not answer another question, "Respect for what?"

Are they superior beings, and if so where is the evidence? Are they more intelligent than men, more courageous physically and morally? Are they more truthful, more honest, more just? If so where are the proofs?

So far as I am concerned I don't mind opening a door for them even if they are strong enough to smash it open with their fists. I don't mind lighting their cigarettes if they wish to give the impression that they are too weak to hold a match. I will even raise my hat in lifts and stand before them with bare, bowed head as if they were corpses, if it makes them any happier.

But I warn them that these acts of humility are [illegible] marks of respect. They are [illegible] of a bygone age when [illegible] to please the ladies of their [illegible] for purposes which were not [illegible].

In other words [illegible] opening of doors, the [illegible] a [illegible] from the past.

Therefore if women want to keep their respect in this era of sex equality they [illegible] open their own doors and [illegible] light their own cigarettes.

And sometimes, as a gesture between equals, raise their [illegible] hats to us.

DAY-LILIES, A LOVELY PERENNIAL

The modern Hybrid Day-Lilies are a most interesting and beautiful perennial. These have been greatly improved since the old yellow or orange kinds which grew in the gardens of our grandmothers. There is now a wide colour range varying from pale yellow to dark reds and including pastel tints, and bi-colour form. The new varieties are larger and some are delightfully perfumed. The season of bloom has been extended so that now day-lilies can be considered the main stay of the hardy perennial border.

They are well adapted for the shrub border and as an effective background for low-growing perennials. Culture is simple as they thrive in any good garden loam. They should be planted in groups in the Spring about two feet apart. Divide established clumps every three years.

The botanical name is Hemerocallis, which means beautiful for a day. Each flowering stem has seven buds which come out on successive days. Your nurseryman lists many fine varieties.

Tips for Teens

By ELINOR WILLIAMS

You'll have more of that useful green stuff—money—for other things, girls, if you know how to shop wisely for the things you wear.

Slips, for example. You probably buy a slip because it's pretty, because it fits or because you can afford it. You buy it to wear to school or to wear with a date dress. But will it wear well? How can you tell? Here are some slip tips to check when you shop.

Your slip fits correctly if: 1. It's large enough to fit smoothly at the bust and hipline. 2. It has a moulded bustline or a curved midriff. 3. It's in your usual teen, junior or misses size range. If you're in the early teens, one of the teen sizes 10 to 16 will probably be best for you. If you're in the middle or late teens and of average height or less, junior sizes may be your best bet. If you're taller than average or large boned, perhaps misses sizes include the one that is best for you.

Maybe you never thought about the way your slips are made, but we're told they give better wear if seams are double sewn and pinked inside or clean finished like a "baby" French seam.

Shoulder straps should be adjustable for growing girls and for normal adjustment. They should be attached firmly to both the trim and the body of the slip with a zig-zag stitch. Laces and embroideries should also be attached with a zig-zag stitch for strength and clean, neat appearance.

Preparing for that outing provided a lot of pleasure and some wholesome eagerness in anticipation of the days ahead as we stowed pro-

You and Your Car

By FREDERICK C. RUSSELL

THE 1951 PICTURE

The 1951 automobile is further proof that there is no such thing as standing still in the motor world. Some of the latest details by way of car features include front-end camber and caster adjustments made in the engine compartment, and the use of a box frame instead of the X-type which had been in vogue long enough to seem standardized. You have doubtless heard about the hydraulic steering on one of the latest cars but did you know that they have taken out the clicking noise in the directional signals on one of the country's finest cars? The rumor is that customers thought the noise not in keeping with the car's characteristic silence.

MECHANIC SPEAKING

"In spite of years of experience comparatively few motorists fully appreciate why it is important that battery connections be tight. Not only is there a good chance of [illegible] coming loose from junctions of the car but the heavy draw on the battery when the starter is used may be sufficient to cause a break in the flow of current. I recall one case where the starter-motor failed because the cable from the battery wasn't secure where it attached to the hot post of the starter. Each time the owner tried to start his cable pulled back just enough to break contact.

"Another thing that breaks contact at the battery posts is corrosion and sometimes the excessive amount of grease which owners put on in an effort to check such corrosion."

ON THE DOWNBEAT

When the generator is not putting out normal current the usual caper is to suspect the current regulation system but it is usually a waste of time. In more times than you'd suspect the generator itself is the seat of the low output. Dirt alone will do it. I mean grime and grease on the commutator. This doesn't always come off with normal sanding of the commutator. In between the segments the slots may fill up with dirt and have the same effect as high mica. That is the dirt itself will cause the brushes to jump.

KEEP IN MIND

One thing you can be reasonably sure about is the fact that if the car steers well without any tendency to weave and wander, there is no excessive front end caster. Also any wear on the front tires can then be attributed to other causes.

Cracks in the sides of whitewall tires do not necessarily indicate underinflation. The chief risk in underinflation lies in the excess internal heat from too much sidewall flexing.

It is not generally known that sudden changes in the ammeter's reading may indicate a shorted cell in the battery. The tendency is to assume every oddity in ammeter reading is due to the generator or the current regulator.

STARTING AS A GUIDE

Some motorists foolishly assume that if an engine starts too easily its mixture is over rich and gas mileage won't be too good. This may be a long way from the truth because any engine in efficient condition and treated to light oil ought to start promptly regardless of how cold the day. I'd be more suspicious of an engine that is hard to start because its starting inefficiency may be extended to all of its operation. Should starting reluctance be due to a sticky valve for instance the engine certainly isn't going to give best results at any time because compression is being lost.

HERE THEY ARE AGAIN

We've been all through this before but if Junior tore up the Russell scrapbook here are a few things to check into if the spark plugs are being inspected.

If the insulator for the centre point looks blistered the plug is too hot for the engine. Heavy black carbon deposits hint of an overrich mixture, bad rings or anything that makes the engine run inefficiently. The plugs too may be too cool for the engine. If the plugs are coated with oil suspect poor rings or overchoking. Should the centre electrode look worn away there's overheating or incorrect ignition timing.

MECHANIC SPEAKING

"While it is true that cars have a neat way of fooling us there are some signs that clearly indicate definite conditions. One of these is stalling of the motor and refusal to re-start after it has started normally and the car has been backed out the driveway. This usually means that the fuel pump is weak.

"If feeding raw gasoline to the intake of the carburetor results in the engine starting up again you can be fairly sure that the pump has been [illegible]. [illegible] pump will keep a [illegible] around town where the engine isn't operating at peak, but will fail when the motor is started because choking causes such a high rate of fuel consumption."

I Fought Spies

Some were [illegible] Most of the [illegible] were boys who had been at school in France, Belgium, Holland, Germany. They were [illegible] secret agents waiting their turn to be parachuted into Nazi territory.

It was a perilous journey. Far too many of them failed to return, were dropped into oblivion, swallowed up by the German Gestapo.

I was requested to give a "Gestapo-style examination" to these boys before they left England so that there might yet be time to correct mistakes.

The first test took place a few days later. Three young fellows, quiet, with the clear eyes of perfect health. They had to be young. Men over 40 tend to cripple themselves on night parachute descents.

These three had completed months of careful training as spies and saboteurs in a British spy school. For months they had lived under perfect self discipline, never a drink too many, an idle word, nor a girl friend. To a secret agent romance is swift death; that is one of the reasons why women do not make good spies.

Black-White Tux Ties

FASHION: Black and white bow ties for formal evening wear are not brand new. But you can expect to see this revolutionary fashion make inroads on the traditional black tie when a man with a following like Fred Waring (right) adopts it. Another prominent man named Truman also favors them.

Tacoma Rockets snared the tail of Victoria Cougars to take over the Pacific Coast Hockey League lead by [illegible] the battling Leaguers to a 4-4 tie at Tacoma last night while the [illegible] New Westminster Royals were [illegible] Portland Eagles, 6-1, on the banks of the Fraser.

The combined results boosted the Royals lead to three points with seven games remaining but [illegible]

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Dear Jim:

[illegible]

Just the same, have to admit that the P.C.H.L. is a pretty good hockey league. Would have to rate them an even chance to beat the Saskatoon Quakers [illegible] I'm picking to take both Cougars and Edmonton and then go on to represent the West in the new hockey series. But while I'm talking about the Prairie hockey league, why don't you quit trying to get Edmonton and Calgary into British Columbia? First you had them entering the W.H.L. and when that didn't pan out, you had them joining the P.C.H.L. to form a new Western Canada Hockey League. Well, they could step in and do well enough but it won't be for a while yet. It's true that Regina and Saskatoon aren't doing too well financially but they're not ready to give up yet. The arenas need senior hockey for revenue and they'll get some more backing. There is also talk that Winnipeg will come in next season so you're going to have to wait for a while yet before you get the chance to say "I told you so."

Next time you write will be expecting to hear about how hard you work. It must be tough at that, going to all those hockey games, and now with the play-offs coming up suppose they'll even expect you to travel with the team. And after that there's Spring training with the ball club coming up and it's 'way down there in California again. Surely your boss can't expect you to rush off down there after the playdowns. Of course, maybe the Cougars will be still playing when the baseball season opens and you won't have to go. There's a limit to what a fellow can take. You'll no sooner get through with hockey than you'll have to go out to that cold, drafty ball park every night and watch the good old Athletics.

Talking about baseball, kind of hope you won't be forced to go to training camp. I'm getting a bit bored with reading all about those contenders in the spring and then watching you try to squirm out from under those weekly predictions. Don't you know a ball player when you see one or are you still young enough to let your enthusiasm run away with you? No wonder your paper gets read. People just want to find out for themselves how wrong a fellow can get. It beats me how you manage to guess so well. You must be picking the easy ones, but it won't be long before that batting average starts to slip.

There isn't much more to say and about now I'm wondering why I ever started to write anyway. Perhaps it was to remind you that it looks as if the Canadiens aren't going to make the N.H.L. play-offs and that the New York Yankees aren't likely to get lucky and get into the World Series this year. You'll be picking them again but the Red Sox aren't going to miss this year, particularly if Ted Williams doesn't get into too many games. They play better without him and if they trade him off for a good catcher and outfielder they'd be a shoo-in.

Have to leave this now but want to remind you not to bother writing if you get a championship. I already know what you're going to say. And while I'm about it, might suggest that you get another picture for that column of yours. That's how you looked when you used to be easy to get along with.

Broda in Sixth Shutout As Black Hawks Ousted

HOW THEY STAND

[illegible]

Veteran Turk Broda returned to the [illegible] for Toronto Maple Leafs last night after an absence of 20 games and scored his sixth shutout as the Leafs whipped the cellar-dwelling Chicago Black Hawks, 3-0, before 12,994 fans at Toronto.

The result left the Leafs four points behind the leading Detroit Red Wings, who whipped Montreal Canadiens 2-1 at Montreal. The Hawks were mathematically eliminated from the National Hockey League play-offs when New York Rangers and Boston Bruins deadlocked for third place, battled to a 1-1 tie at Boston. Canadiens dropped three points back of the final play-off berth.

FANS APPROVE

Max Bentley paced Leafs to their triumph with two goals and the crowd let out a roar of approval at the finish for Broda who has been sidelined since January 9.

There were only three penalties but one was a match penalty to Gus Mortson of Leafs for deliberately trying to injure an opponent when he swung his stick at Adam Brown. Brown received a major for fighting as a result of the incident. Mortson will not be able to play again until his case is dealt with by league officials. Usual practice is a fine and suspension.

The injury-riddled Hawks were hit again. Defenceman Bill Gadsby [illegible] his leg for the second time [illegible] season and Doug McCaig received a [illegible] cut under his left eye.

RICHARD ON RAMPAGE

Another match penalty was handed out at Montreal when Maurice Richard struck linesman Eddie Mepham several times with his stick. The incident which was watched by league president Clarence Campbell, brought hundreds of rubbers and other pieces of footwear onto the ice from a disapproving crowd of 14,543. Canadiens blew a 1-0 lead but outshot the Wings 47-37.

Bruins and Rangers battled to their eighth tie of the season before a Boston crowd of 9,921. The tie was Rangers' 19th, tying the [illegible] record set last year by Canadiens.

Johnny Peirson scored the equalizer for Bruins with nine seconds remaining after the Rangers had fought back from a 2-0 deficit to take the lead.

All [illegible] and official [illegible] whose party will [illegible] by special train, [illegible] Halifax Sunday night. Nearly 100 [illegible] curlers, officials of the bonspiel curling [illegible] and newspapermen are [illegible] to board the special.

[illegible] Montreal are [illegible] west of [illegible].

NEWFOUNDLAND ENTERED

With the addition this year of [illegible] four Maritime rinks [illegible] when the 11-rink [illegible] gets under way Tuesday at the [illegible] arena. Five [illegible] nights of play will decide [illegible] Dominion champion.

[illegible] of this year's 44 curlers [illegible] last year at Vancouver [illegible] Tom Ramsay's rink from [illegible] brought the title to Northern Ontario for the first time in the 24-year history of the bonspiel.

Only [illegible] of the 44 have played with a Canadian championship [illegible]. They are Gordon Campbell, who skipped his Hamilton Thistle quartette to the title in 193[illegible], and John Lawrence Stewart, who curled with Leo Johnson's winning [illegible] from the Elmwood Club of Winnipeg in 1934.

[illegible] has since moved to [illegible] and this year is skip of the powerful Toronto Granite Club representing Ontario.

Stewart, now president of the [illegible] Curling Club of Winnipeg, is third stone for Skip Roy Forsyth.

This year's entries represent a cross-section of business and sport throughout the Dominion. There are mining engineers, taxi service operators, chemical engineers, builders, accountants and men from almost any industry you can name at random.

FATHER AND SON

There is also a father and son [illegible]. They are Bill Gray and Glenn Gray of the Edmonton Curling Club, two of Alberta's [illegible].

The son, Glenn, is also a [illegible] amateur golfer who [illegible] in the Canadian Amateur tournament at Saskatoon last Summer and was a member of Alberta's Willingdon Cup golf team.

The father is skip of the rink and the son is third stone. Bill Gray has been curling since 1926. He has been [illegible] to the Alberta provincials [illegible] but this year was the first time he has made it in 15 attempts.

It was Alberta also that produced the Manahan father-son curling combination. Back in 1947 Cliff Manahan brought Alberta its first Canadian title. Second stone on that famous rink was G. R. Manahan, Cliff's son.

OLD AND YOUNG

The average age of this year's competitors is 41 ranging from the veteran 70-year-old Nick Thibodeau, skip and [illegible] stone of the New Brunswick entry to 23-year-old Mel Jenkins, lead for skip Frank Acorn's Prince Edward Island entry from Charlottetown.

The youngest rink is the Northern Ontario quartet whose average age is 31. The oldest is the Newfoundland entry skipped by 68-year-old Tommy Hallett, with an average age of 47.

Attlesey's Win Eases Shock Of U.S. Losses

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, March 3 (CP).—[illegible] Dick Attlesey, [illegible] champion [illegible] Southern California, [illegible] 14 seconds flat [illegible] in the 110-metre [illegible] of the Pan-American Games.

Argentina held a 50-point lead over the United States in the unofficial [illegible] of the day's competition. The Argentines led 367 to 328. Mexico was third with 140 points.

Attlesey's triumph, coupled with a come-from-behind United States victory in the modern pentathlon, eased the shock of two unexpected American defeats.

In the other the Wake Forest N.C.A.A. champion baseball team, representing the United States in that phase of the 19-sport Pan-American Games, lost to Nicaragua by a heart-breaking 9-8 count.

And the best Uncle Sam's lasses could do in the 80-metre women's hurdles was a third place behind two Chilean lasses.

Seymour's fine javelin throw of 22[illegible] feet bettered Heber's old South American record of 224 feet 11 inches, but along came Heber today to better it even further with his medal-winning throw of 223 feet 4 inches.

Moonrush Cops $100,000 Race At Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif., March 3 (AP).—Moonrush, a 10-to-1 shot, won the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap today.

The five-year-old California-bred bay gelding, owned by Anita King and [illegible], was given a ride almost wire-to-wire by Johnny Longden.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's filly, Next Move, gave him a battle down the stretch, but was nipped in a photo finish.

Time for the mile and one-quarter event over a track that was only good after week-long showers was 2:02 3-5.

Clifford Mooers' Sudan was third and the Argentine Repeluz, owned by Abe Hirschberg was fourth.

The winner paid $22.90, $11.50 and $8.40. Next Move $6.30 and $4.50, Sudan $7.70 to show.

Left behind were the favorites, Calumet Farm's entry of All Blue and Bewitch, heavily backed at 5-2, and Great Circle, which won the $200,000 Maturity here earlier this month.

Don Gehrmann Finally Loses To Fred Wilt

NEW YORK, March 3 (INS).—Fred Wilt finally did it.

The 30-year-old F.B.I. [illegible] ended a long series of defeats by Don Gehrmann tonight to flash home first by seven yards in the Columbian mile at the Knights of Columbus track meet at Madison Square Garden.

Wilt's victory in four minutes, 8.4 seconds, ended a string of 39 straight triumphs for Gehrmann extending back to 1948. In six of those races this year and two last year it was Wilt who trailed the slender University of Wisconsin alumnus home.

Those wearisome lickings included the controversial Millrose games' near dead heat of 1950, and last week's equally close loss in which Gehrmann caught Fred in the final strides.

But Wilt needed an assist from New York Athletic Club teammate Stewart Ray, who set the pace for seven of the 11 laps.

Charlie Conacher took a big hitch on the National Hockey League scoring title 16 years ago tonight when he scored four of Toronto's ten goals against Montreal Canadiens. With one of the hardest shots in hockey, Conacher finished on top of the scoring table in 1935. He quit playing in 1949 and coached Chicago Black Hawks from 1948 until last Spring.

Chicago University Foresaw Scandal; Refused Subsidization of Athletes

(March 8 will be the fifth anniversary of the University of Chicago's formal withdrawal from the Big Ten. Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins had recognized the evils which came with the expansion of college athletics into a multi-million-dollar business and which now have exploded in the form of a New York basketball scandal. An International News Service flashes back today to reveal why Chicago quit big time sports and to tell what has happened since that time.)

By KEN OPSTEIN

CHICAGO, March 3 (INS).—The University of Chicago, a 50-year charter member of what later became [illegible] the Big Ten, [illegible] all association with the league that it once ruled in almost every sport.

The Maroons' good-bye to major competition in athletics followed by six years the institution's celebrated divorce from football.

The University of Chicago quit the conference because of "inability to provide reasonable equality of competition."

SIXTY STRAIGHT LOSSES

No one would deny these words. The Chicago basketball team had lost 60 straight games. And the student newspaper asked that the school leave the Big Ten. The Chicago Maroon said:

"The athletic staff of this university has made a courageous effort to inject honesty and decency into athletics. Its record is eloquent testimony that such a policy is an impossibility, if athletic rewards are to be attained in the Big Ten. The hope that other universities will reform is to seek a proverbial pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

"The conclusion, therefore, is inescapable. Chicago is doomed to inevitable defeat so long as it competes against [illegible] schools. Chicago therefore must sever relations with the Big Ten."

NO SUBSIDIZATION

Dr. Hutchins had previously told the Chicago [illegible] that there was one way in which the Maroons could "wave the flag of old Chicago" in victory. He said:

"We could subsidize players or [illegible]. [illegible] you have seemed to feel that the only good football was winning football and that the university should take this path to victory. In your latest poll you voted overwhelmingly for football and overwhelmingly for subsidization.

"Many of the students and alumni with whom I have talked have urged upon me what they called 'legitimate' subsidization. I am sorry to tell you there is no such thing."

But sports did not die at Chicago. Athletic Director T. Nelson Metcalf says that the 'boys who could be riding the bench at another school are now playing the game they like at Chicago.'

He won't agree that the only exercise Chicago students get is carrying the weighty works of Plato and Aristotle to and from class. Metcalf [illegible]:

"The University of Chicago is in the midst of its biggest sports boom in history. There are 40 teams competing in 18 sports.

"Athletics at Chicago are not for the purpose of making money or entertaining spectators. Instead, we spend approximately $250,000 to provide recreation. We have given sports back to the boys."

Ferrier Nears New Record For Meet Play

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3 (INS).—Big Jim Ferrier stepped up his lead in the St. Petersburg open today and moved to within easy reach of setting a new record for the tournament.

The former Australian champ putted his way to a five-under-par 66 in today's third round. Together with his previous cards of 64 and 69 it gave him a 199 total—a 54-hole record for the course.

Ben Hogan holds the tournament record of 269 for 72 holes.

Ferrier's nearest competitors are little Bob Toski of Northampton, Mass., playing the Winter tour for the second time, and the veteran Al Brosch of Garden City, N.Y. Toski had a 66 today for 204 and Brosch reached that mark with a 67.

Pete Cooper holds fourth place with 137-68—205.

Probe of Casaba Scandal Reaches to 1947 Season

By CHARLES EINSTEIN

NEW YORK, March 3 (INS).—Weary investigators in New York's college basketball scandal turned back the clock to 1947 today and groped for more names in the ever-widening probe.

Hearings for 13 men already under arrest are scheduled for Monday.

The evidence kept piling up as one after another among the persons arrested so far "sang" to the district attorney. Their disclosures were enough to make Clair Bee, coach of a Long Island University team already hit with six arrests, wonder bitterly "how we ever won any game."

The twisting story of Lou Lipman, ex-L.I.U. point-maker and latest of 11 players to be arrested, was enough for only to predict further police crackdowns but to set [illegible] in their [illegible].

PLAYERS THREATENED

Lipman, brought to New York from Florida by staff aides of district attorney Frank S. Hogan, is charged with taking a $300 bribe to throw the L.I.U.-Duquesne game in Madison Square Garden on January 1, 1949.

Hogan said Lipman told of double-crosses within double-crosses as L.I.U. players and "fixers" tried to manoeuvre one another out of payoffs. Once, Lipman said, before he consented to go along with the fix, his suspicions were aroused, but a teammate warned him that shooting off his mouth would cause him to be "put in a sack and dumped in the river."

Lipman told Hogan that on another occasion following a close victory over Southern California, teammate Nate Miller, another of the ex-L.I.U. stars now under arrest, told him:

"Lou, if you'd made one more basket you'd have gotten us all killed."

FOUR OTHERS SOUGHT

Faced with a five-year statute of limitations, investigators today nevertheless were digging back to 1947 and beyond in expectations of uncovering more "fixes." It was understood that in addition to Lipman, at least four men have been implicated. Two of these were said to be gamblers rivaling Salvatore Sollazzo, who is being held as the arch fixer in the present expose, and a third was said to be a former L.I.U. star who acted, among other capacities, as Sollazzo's betting agent out of town.

COACH SEEKS JOB

Coach Bee of L.I.U., a school which has come to be involved in the scandal more than C.C.N.Y. and N.Y.U., which also have players under arrest, was reported to be in Charleston, W.Va., today, looking up a "business proposition" which may take him out of the coaching ranks for good.

In Chicago, The Herald-American said in a copyright story that three-fourths of the nation's basketball coaches do not believe the fixing of games is confined to the New York City area.

Golf—Here's How

By SAM SNEAD
Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher

Today we picture a player swinging in excellent form, with one exception. That I'll leave you to find for yourself, for the moment. Notice that our player's weight is well divided between the feet, though most of the weight is on the right, as it should be. Note that this player is maintaining firm left foot grip on the ground with the weight on the inside of the ball of the foot. His hip-pivot is nearly horizontal, as it should be and he is levering against the straight right leg. His shoulder pivot is in a more perpendicular plane instead of the horizontal, his left arm is straight, he has held his head position fixed—no sidewise or up and down sway. This golfer knows how to swing a golf club. Now to the flaw. The wrists are too fully cocked for this stage of the backswing. If the wrists are cocked too soon in backswing, as pictured, it is extremely difficult to avoid starting the uncocking action too high up in the downswing.

6 REASONS why you get a quicker, closer, smoother shave with a Schick Injector Razor

1 Here's the Injector that contains the blades . . . sealed in a bath of oil . . . the blade edges are untouched until the instant they hit your whiskers.
2 Here's how the blade is changed, just a pull . . . and a push of the "trigger" . . . and out goes the old blade, in goes the new . . . ready for a perfect shave.
3 Here's the keen Schick Blade. Twice as thick as most blades . . . able to take a sharper edge and hold it. Each blade individually honed, stropped, inspected.

4 Here's the trim, compact head which gets right into those hard-to-shave spots. It is half the bulk of most other razor heads, but shaves just as wide an area.
5 Here's the way the famous Guide Bar works . . . It flattens and tightens the skin ahead of the blade . . . like a barber's fingers. No nicks and scrapes.
6 Here's how you save several minutes every day . . . no need to wipe and dry the Injector Razor after every shave . . . a flush under the tap and it's clean.

Hage upset Art Barran of Vancouver in the semi-final by taking a 21-14, 21-17, 15-21, 21-19 triumph while Houston advanced to the final with an upset 21-15, 22-20, 20-22, 21-19 victory over Art Ngai of Victoria.

Canadian Runner Defeated in Mile

Don McEwen, Ottawa youth running for Michigan, was upset in the mile event at the 41st annual Big Ten track and field championships at Champaign, Illinois, last night.

Favored to win the event, McEwen trailed Len Truex of Ohio State after leading to the final 300 yards. The Ohioan equalled the indoor mile mark of 4:10.4, set by Don Gehrmann before he graduated.

McEwen compensated for his failure in the mile by coming back later to run his opposition into the ground in the two-mile event. His time was 9:10.7, three and a half seconds above his own conference mark.

The calendar revision by Pope Gregory in 1582 was not adopted in England until 1752.

Diamonds, Courts Prepared

By BARBARA MacCONACHIE
North Saanich High School

A group of students from North Saanich attended the Students' Symphony concert last Sunday afternoon. Included in the group were Donna Gilbert, Marlyn West, Elisabeth Bosher, Barbara MacConachie, Stuart Beaveridge, Jean Johnston, Robert Barraclough, Mary Watson, [illegible] King, Valerie Gray, Yvonne Christian and Jackie MacCormack.

North Saanich senior girls defeated Mt. Newton 15-5 and 15-9 in a volleyball match played here on Wednesday. The members of the North Saanich team were Ellen and Esther Bertelsen, Beverley Munton, Wendy Sangster, Barbara MacConachie, Valerie Head, Dorothy Wilson, Frances Forge, Margaret Sheppy and Marilyn Bellamy. Earlier in the week the senior boys had won their two games 15-7 and 15-11 in a volleyball contest at Mt. Newton. These games gave North Saanich four points toward the F. N. Wright Trophy.

Now that Winter is supposed to be officially over, school work parties are being organized to make the tennis courts playable for the students, and there has been some discussion of having the courts hard-surfaced this year. Baseball enthusiasts have been busy marking out the baseball diamonds and working on the playing field.

The students of North Saanich were proud to hear that the senior boys' team had come sixth in the [illegible] basketball championship. The boys had stiff competition and they played well and hard.

St. Patrick's Event Planned For College

By DAVE WHYTE and JIM PARKER
St. Louis College

The St. Louis College Student Council held its monthly meeting on Monday, February 26. The main item of discussion was the planning of the St. Patrick's Day tombola, sponsored for the first time in the history of the school by the council itself.

Also looming on the horizon is the boxing tournament of March 10, which will see St. Louis College pitted against Vancouver College for the Ignatius Rice Memorial Trophy. Such fighters as the famed Jackie O'Neill, Brian O'Hare, Bobby Thompson and Bert Wilkenson will be seen giving their all in hopes of capturing the evening's laurels.

Along with the many other social activities, the students of the four high school grades, together with the high school department of St. Ann's Academy have been able to enjoy the benefits of a bowling league every Saturday morning. Unfortunately, and to the dismay of many, this league is expected to terminate within the next two weeks.

Gals whose clothes have that fashion-right look are often the [illegible] accessories can go to dress up an ordinary school-time outfit.

Firstly, there is there anything more versatile than your favorite kerchief? With your plain sweaters, it's tied in a square knot or fastened down with scatter pins; with collared blouses it's tied under your chin to add a note of color; with your high-necked suit jacket it's tucked in Ascot fashion.

For a very cute harlequin effect some of the gals are twining two solid-color silk scarves together and pinning them down so that an end of each color shows.

CRISP COLLARS

Separate collars and dickies have long since taken an important place in teeners' collections of sweater accents; that frosty white touch is such a nice face-framer. Pique or gabardine crisply starched fashion them in pointed or Peter Pan styles, with one type showing a turn-about arrangement pointed on one side, rounded on the other.

Add a touch of velvet and you add a touch of glamour, say the style-wise misses, and they're definitely right when it comes to the air of drama, a detachable black velvet collar can give a plain dress.

BRIGHT BLOSSOMS

A single bright flower can add that extra bit of chic to a costume and is a feature of both school and dress-up duds. It's a standing favorite pinned at the neck of your prettiest blouse, or, for a romantic look, try it fastened at the waist of a party-going skirt or dress.

For class-room color, a gay little rose or carnation goes at the neck of your grey-mixture wool jersey or pet fabric blouse, or with any neutral-toned jersey topper for that matter.

BELTS A FEATURE

Belts are staging a come-back to the high-school fashion scene and mighty smart they look accenting your [illegible]. A few of the [illegible] are complete with their own self-belt but generally the belts the fashionable femmes are donning are completely contrasting.

Definitely "the latest thing" are the wide polished leather belts set with a large antique-looking medallion. These really give that [illegible] style look. Plaid [illegible] can't get away from its fashion color belts, belts that can be matched up with the other tartans in your wardrobe. Some of these are completely Scottish with a thistle-shaped buckle.

Narrow belts of natural leather (often beautifully tooled by you nimble-fingered art students) are perfect skirt dresser-uppers, and a vivid touch is given by a belt matching the flower at your neck-line. Any of these modish middle-circlers will help turn a plain skirt 'n' blouse combination into a smart ensemble.

Marion Gibbs Elected; Transferable Vote Used

By BRIAN WHARF
Victoria College

Eighteen-year-old Marion Gibbs, elected head of the 1951-52 Students' Council this week, has the distinction of being the first woman president in the history of Victoria College. Miss Gibbs led a tight race by 27 votes over John Coates. Archie McIntosh was third. Miss Gibbs brings a wealth of experience to her new post as she was president of Oak Bay High Council, editor of The Tower and the Victoria College Annual last year, and is president of the Women's Undergraduate Society.

Ray Orchard managed the winner's campaign, while Ken Leighton and David Stheaton were campaign managers for Archie McIntosh and John Coates, respectively. Many original ideas were displayed during the campaign. Mr. Orchard distributed cigarettes stamped "Vote Gibbs" to the student body.

TRANSFERABLE VOTE

The voting was conducted under the single transferable system in which the second place vote of the last candidate is transferred to the first two. Nominations for the positions of secretary, treasurer, men's and women's athletic representative, director of publicity and director of literary and scientific affairs on the council open March 2 and close March 9.

The annual awards banquet and dance is to be held at the Crystal Garden, March 16. The banquet will begin at 6.30 p.m. and the dance at 9 p.m. Awards will be presented as follows: Mr. R. Wallace, Rugby; Mr. C. Howatson, soccer and second division Rugby; Mr. L. Clarke, basketball; Mrs. P. Noble, hockey; Miss P. Baxendale, women's basketball; Mr. G. McOrmond, activity pins. Mr. J. B. Clearihue will present greetings from the Victoria College Council; Miss Marion Gibbs, president elect, will give a speech and Ken Mackay, president, will be master of ceremonies.

FILMS SHOWN

On Wednesday the Moody Bible Institute presented a film for college and normal school students, "To Every Creature." This film described the task being tackled by missionaries in South America today.

On Thursday a large audience saw the International Relations Club film "Dutch Tradition." The film pictured prewar Holland, the Nazi occupation and the Dutch resistance to the enemy.

Rev. Cameron Shields, of St. Paul's Church, led a discussion among members of the Student Christian Movement on "Christian Views of Marriage" on Friday at noon.

Skill, Strength Needed In Indoor Track Events

MOUNT VIEW HIGH SCHOOL
By Valerie Mockford and Leslie Gilmour

For the second year in succession, we are planning another grand indoor track meet with the three houses as contestants. The Selkirks, Cascades and Olympics are busy practising their rootin', tootin' house yells, which would bring any roof down.

Unlike an outdoor track meet, this one will feature events that require a great amount of strength and skill.

The program includes a relay, a [illegible] race, a sack race, a "thread the needle" race, an apple eating race, a paper race, a pop-bottle contest and a basketball shooting race.

The school band will provide the music for the opening and closing songs. The indoor track meet, if it is anything like last year, will be a riot. The Hi-Y girls have been busy making and selling the different colored house ribbons for the Tuesday afternoon event.

THANKS DUE

In the Vancouver Island basketball tournament, special thanks are due to Mr. Snowsell, who coached the Mount View basketball team to three well-fought games. Mount View dropped a close decision to Nanaimo in the second overtime period in the play-off for third place position. The team reached the play-off defeating Tsolum in the previous day's play.

The Mount View quintette gained the distinction of holding the tournament winner, Alberni, to the lowest output of points because of its excellent zone defence. Roger Windle, first string guard, won special mention from the tournament judges in the all-star team.

Whether it is superstitious or not, Friday the 13th of April is the date of our next school dance. The Students' Council announced that it was to be a "Cotton Stag," which means that students are to come as "lone wolves." (Take it which way you like it!) The girls are planning to wear cotton Spring dresses, and the boys, sports clothes. The music will be provided by the "Garden City Five."

Plans are under way for the proposed "Citizen's Day." The program is divided into two parts. First, for the Grade XII students, will be visits to all the administrative offices at the municipal, Provincial or Federal buildings, such as hospitals, City Hall and post office. The Grade XI's will be organized into large groups to visit the industrial plants of the city. The senior students are looking forward to this day, which is expected to be some time early in March.

Primary Swim Classes Popular With Children

Y.M.C.A. NEWS

By ELEANOR FLETCHER

Although usually overshadowed by the more advanced clubs, the beginners' swimming classes at the Y.M.C.A. are nevertheless important, for they provide sound initial instruction. Each week, youngsters from six to ten years of age splash in the "Y" pool, learning the fundamentals of swimming from such experts as Archie McKinnon, Percy Rundle, Ian Anderson and Stan Powell.

In the cycle of Winter classes 300 beginners are started every three months, and the swimmers are promoted to more advanced classes as they progress.

Adults are also included in this learners program, in Thursday evening lessons. The "small fry" are coached on Tuesday and Friday afternoons.

"Y" swimmers Norma Stewart, Joan Morgan and Gillian Watson will represent their club at the Pacific Northwest open titles in Seattle on April 7.

LEATHERCRAFT

Under the capable tuition of Kae Massey and Ken Bostock, people from all walks of life gather every Wednesday [illegible] for themselves and their friends.

Florence Pl[illegible] a typist, is tooling a belt, while Mrs. Buxton, a housewife, has undertaken a key case, wallet and handbag set.

"Unique" describes the wallet created by Mary Leung. A sinister leering dragon has been tooled into the leather.

"Creative work such as this stimulates, yet relaxes the mind after a day in the office," says Miss P. Brown, stenographer.

"We discourage the use of prescribed and already adapted patterns, wherever possible," says Mrs. Massey. "Originality is encouraged but this does not necessarily mean making up a design. Being able to adapt from an entirely different field is one of the secrets of good craftsmanship."

Mrs. Massey also takes an active interest in weaving, textile painting and pottery-making, and instructs at the Friday evening square-dance sessions.

ENTERTAIN TROOPS

Guided by Mrs. Robert Munro, the Junior Hostess Club is now in attendance three evenings a week to provide entertainment for service personnel. Mondays, movies are on the agenda, followed by a concert and dancing. A splash party and dance are the main attractions each Wednesday. Friday nights it's either "learn how" or "brush up" on dancing with instruction by Mr. Evans in everything from the waltz, rumba and tango to the "dosi-dos" and "allemande lefts" for the square-dance fan.

The Hostess Club consists of young women who "pledge their time for the entertainment of the servicemen and not for their own enjoyment." Some hostesses act as chaperones.

Mrs. Munro was in charge of a similar group in Seattle during the war. With an enrollment of 8,000 girls, that club held an average of 27 dances each week at [illegible].

Monday will mark the start of the concert parties . . . Members of the Hi-Y inter-council will be in Duncan, Sunday, to induct a new club . . . More than 80 boys and 60 parents were on hand for the boys' department open house . . . Boys' leaders from city clubs were invited to sit in on a meeting of the Tyro Club Tuesday evening. This new club is for lads from nine to 13 years . . . Plans are set for the jointly-sponsored Hi-Y dance Friday.

Committee Makes Plans For Graduation Banquet

By GAIL O'MEARA
Oak Bay High School

Oak Bay High School's "Class of '51" will hold its graduation banquet and dance on June 8 at the Monterey restaurant. The Grade Twelves held a brief meeting on Monday morning to discuss the plans for the graduation ceremony. A committee of six was chosen to look after all the existing details. Joyce Main, Marguerite Faithful, [illegible] and Don Rapatoe compose the graduation committee. There are 86 members of the graduating classes, 41 boys and 46 girls.

The Oak Bay High School Choir has been invited to sing Friday evening at the S. J. Willis Junior High School. The three selections to be sung by the choir, under the direction of Mr. G. Bower, are "Irish Words," "My Song," and "A Toving."

The Oak Leaf paper, the first edition of 1951, was sold to the students on Thursday. All future editions will be [illegible].

Victoria High Students Take Six Poster Prizes

By LOWRIE MOBLEY
Victoria High School

In a recent province-wide poster contest, Victoria High students captured four firsts and two seconds in the seven contest groups which consisted of the farm, church, labor, home, commerce and industry, school and community. Winners were Audrey Scott, first, church class; Jeannie Meyers, first, labor class; Pat Levitt, first, home class; Terry Bombardier, first, school class; Ann Kipling, second, farm class; Ann Heywood, second, commerce and industry class. Sylvia Berg received honorable mention.

Posters judged first, second or third, and those receiving honorable mention, will be exhibited during Convention Week, and some will be reproduced for future use. Prizes of $20 go to firsts.

"First prize should also be given to Mrs. Cameron," remarked Ann Kipling. Art teacher Mrs. Cameron is always a source of encouragement and good taste.

CONSCRIPTION DEBATED

Conscription was the controversial topic chosen by the Discussion Club at its second meeting last Monday. Acting as chairman, Joyce Coombs opened the debate between the affirmative speakers, Peter Jackman and Joy Russell, and the negative speakers, Naidia Pernicky and Ray Logie. After the initial debate, the eight members of the audience were asked to join in the discussion. Next on the list of debates is responsibility to parents in regard to money matters.

In honor of St. Patrick, everyone with even a drop of Irish will attend the Hi-Y co-ed dance, March 9 at 8.30 p.m. in the Lower Crystal ballroom. Girls who have been crafty enough to book their men early are busy thinking up unique corsages. These are likely to consist of anything from cabbages to helium balloons.

Sponsored by the Students' Council is the Spring dance, scheduled April 27. Council members are racking their brains for a Spring-like appellation. Names for the dances are always a sore point for certain council members who disdain the more original titles in favor of worn-out old stand-bys.

Featuring the Oak Bay and V.H.S. Orchestras, and the Victoria High School String Group, will be a concert March 8 and 9, in the auditorium. V.H.S. and Oak Bay will combine to play melodies from "Rigoletto" and the "Processional March," by Charles Wood. Dvorak's "Largo" will be presented by the string group. Tickets are now on sale for 50 cents.

First place in the three-mile cross-country road race was taken by Hedley Sampson, followed by Pete Kirchiner, Jack Moffatt, of University School, and Dickie Wood. A large contingent of University School runners joined representatives from Oak Bay and Mount Douglas in what is becoming an increasingly popular event.

Cribbing has been put around the cinder track, making it look nearer competition. Anxious athletes can be seen taking note of every shovelfull of cinders thrown on.

An unpleasant after Easter surprise will come in the form of recommendation examinations. Owing to the early arrival of Easter they will be held April 25, 26 and 27.

School Principal To Give Address

Business meeting of members of the Saanich Chamber of Commerce will be held in the Women's Institute Hall, Brentwood, on Monday at 7.30 p.m. Installation of officers for 1951 will take place. At 8.30 the meeting will be opened to the public to hear B. C. Gillie, principal of Topaz Avenue Junior High School, on the subject, "Frills in Education."

Division I Wins

Pocket Books Pour In As Classes Seek Shield

By KITTY DIXON
Esquimalt High School

Pocket books of every description have been pouring into Esquimalt High School during the past week. There are Westerns, mysteries, novels and various kinds of non-fictional books among the 3,629 that have arrived. Each division was determined to win the inter-class competition shield for the month of February.

Division I, with 37.75 books per capita, nosed out the favorite, Division VI, which ended with 34.34 after having been in the lead since the beginning of the month. Division IV with 32.97 came third. The drive was sponsored by the Junior Red Cross, which will turn the books over to the Veterans Hospital.

The collection of rummage for the school's forthcoming rummage sale will be the inter-class competition for the month of March.

EXCELLENT JOB

The E.H.S. "Review" is fresh off the press. Gordon Balfour, as editor, did an excellent job of producing Esquimalt's February paper, and Bill Woods, who was art editor this month, designed a clever cover and several amusing cartoons. Other members of the staff were Don Miller, news; Jerry Harris and Vic Fry, sports; Grace Peterson, literary; Gloria Molofy and Jean Saunders, typists.

Next month's paper will have to be ready to go to press within two weeks, as the journalism class will demonstrate to the P.-T.A. at their next meeting, March 13, how the school paper is printed.

The E.H.S. Dockers did well in the Vancouver Island basketball tournament last week-end. Although the team was defeated in its first game against the tournament-winning Alberni High, the boys downed Tsolum and North Saanich to place in the tournament. Ted Saunders won a position on the second all-star team and Barrie Jackson was given honorable mention.

The Students Council chose Art Gamble to select the four best ping-pong players in the school. The selected students represented the school in the British Columbia championship tournament.

Soccer Team Getting in Shape For Tilts With North Saanich

By FRANK PRESTON and ANNE MILEWSKI
Mount Newton High School

Our senior boys and girls both dropped their last games in the two-game series being played for the F. N. Wright Trophy. Mt. Newton has six points while North Saanich has ten toward winning the trophy.

The senior soccer team is resuming practices to get in shape for a series which will commence on Monday with North Saanich for the trophy points.

At a recent council meeting the representatives appointed various committees to organize the Spring Dance. The Grade XI class was made responsible for the decorations. Bernice Liddiard, Bob Dudman and Beverley Mitchell are looking after the refreshments.

During the month of March, three girls will work at the D.V.A. Canteen on Saturdays. Bernice Liddiard, Lorraine Halliday and Shirley Kuehler are offering their services this Saturday.

Interesting films were shown during the week which included "Behind the Menu," "Cliff Hangers," "Birds of Canada." Another reel shown was "A Feeling of Depression."

By JOYCE JOHNSON
Mount Douglas High School

Wednesday noon in the auditorium the students were entertained by a play presented by the school drama group, and three films. The play was a [illegible] comedy, "Madame Camellia's Beauty Parlor." STANDS THIRD

M. Johnson defeated M. Webb to take sole possession of third place in the junior girls' ping-pong tournament and wind up the table tennis leagues until next term.

The annual badminton tournament got into full swing this week with D. Woods, L. Walker, M. Wong, and J. Sutherland winning their first games in the girls' division. In the boys' league N. Lidstone defeated B. Webb.

Our congratulations to Tony Nicholson who came eighth in the annual inter-high road race. Incidentaly, Tony was Mt. Douglas' only entry.

WIN RUGBY TILT

Last Monday the rugby team defeated Oak Bay 6-3. The teams were evenly matched and the game well fought. Mt. Douglas' two tries were scored by Doug Bonar and Mike [illegible].

Though on earth you are no more;
Still in memory you are with us,
As you always were before.
Ever remembered by sons, John, Bob and Jim, and daughters Bessie and Nan, and families.

CARMICHAEL—In loving memory of my dear mother, Elizabeth Carmichael, who passed away March 4, 1949.
In my heart your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true;

According to the number of folks who came to our warehouse yesterday who were new customers to us we should tell people how to find us more often. Here it is again: a block and a half up from the "Bay" toward Quadra (Balmoral Road is a continuation of Fisgard St.). It is a little difficult to describe just where we are but actually it's only a few minutes walk from town and you really do save money. We have contracted to buy quite a large amount of useful used furniture during next week and the first truckload should be in about 2 p.m. Monday. Thanks for your patronage folks, and don't forget our date Monday night, Radio Station CKDA, 7.30 p.m.

PACKARD OWNERS!
ENGINE SLUGGISH?
MAYBE IT CAN'T BREATHE!
Deposits of carbon on your valves may be preventing your valves from "EXHALING" exhaust gases. Maybe your engine cannot "HOLD ITS BREATH" while compression is being built up in your cylinders. Your engine inhales 10 lbs. of air per one pound of gas, and if it cannot "exhale" properly, you can guess the result.
HOW WOULD YOU FEEL???
Let our experts restore the performance your car was built to give to you.

Coast Awaits Cargoes Of Japanese Oysters

MARINE AND TRAVEL NEWS

By RAY WORMALD

A huge shipment of Japanese oysters 700,000,000 of them—is due to reach Pacific Northwest ports within the next two months, and many of them are destined for Vancouver Island.

The small seed oysters, costing $200,000 plus transportation (aboard a total of six ships), are coming from Sendai Bay, Japan. They are to be planted, in Pacific Coast beds from Oregon to Alaska.

"It is generally estimated that between 5,000 and 6,000 cases of them are coming to British Columbia," reports George J. Alexander, deputy minister of fisheries, "and of that number many will be planted in beds along the east coast of Vancouver Island."

Such shipments, he explained, are brought from Japan because oysters can't be counted upon to spawn in comparatively cold waters on this side of the Pacific.

GUARD AGAINST PESTS

He emphasized that every precaution was taken to make sure the Japanese oysters didn't bring with them any small marine life which, once located in British Columbia waters, might become a serious pest. American marine biologists would examine the imported oysters upon arrival at a United States port, and then Canadian authorities would make a double check before the oysters were allowed to enter Canadian waters. Japanese oysters intended for B.C., Mr. Alexander stated, are usually unloaded at either Anacortes or Bellingham. From there they are brought into B.C. in barges.

The Japanese oysters due here soon are consigned to individual growers of B.C. They are ordered, the deputy minister said, through the Pacific Coast Oyster Growers' Association, which in turn places the orders through the United States Commercial Corporation.

ACTING COMMODORE

Capt. Ernest P. Tisdall, who is to succeed the late Commodore G. R. Miles as officer commanding H.M.C.S. Naden, will hold the rank of acting commodore for new duties, naval authorities announced yesterday.

He is currently on his way here from Ottawa, and is scheduled to arrive tomorrow or Tuesday.

A native of Semenos, Capt. Tisdall is the son of Magistrate G. Tisdall of Duncan. He was formerly director-general of naval ordnance at Ottawa. The 42-year-old officer started his naval career at Naden as a cadet.

MARINERS' WARNINGS

The Transport Department yesterday advised mariners that a large deadhead, projecting about four feet out of the water, was reported to be about three and a half miles southwest of Point Atkinson.

It is also reported that buoys recently placed to mark a small aircraft which sank off the entrance to Esquimalt harbor have been removed.

POPULAR PARKS

During the nine-month period ending December 31, 1950, visitors to Canada's national and historic parks numbered 1,900,343, a record total.

Cash Basis For Fines To Remain

Penitent Victorians fined in police court will still have to pay cash.

Although there is a move afoot in Manitoba to introduce the instalment system into municipal and city police courts, apparently there is no British Columbia law permitting the "pay-as-you-go" plan.

Persons convicted here under the Government Liquor Act must pay cash or remain in custody until friends or relatives put up the money.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall has been giving persons with traffic convictions a week to pay fines, although they must pay the whole amount at one time.

Time payments were legalized in England in 1914.

Plants Sought For Aluminum In U.S. States

PORTLAND, Ore., March 3 (AP)—Another aluminum plant may be built on the lower Columbia River.

Eastern Metal Products Company is considering building the plant and Bonneville has made a contingent power reservation of about 120,000 kilowatts for the firm, D. L. Marlett, acting power administrator, said today.

Still more Northwest aluminum plant plans are in the offing, Marlett said, in addition to one proposed by Alcoa for the Wenatchee area.

Alcoa plans a $30,000,000 reduction plant at Grand Coulee. Negotiations between the company and the town of Grand Coulee concerning location of the plant have been under way for the last month.

Brief Ceremony at H.M.C.S. Naden Opens Navy's First Medical School

Opening of the Royal Canadian Navy's first medical school was marked at H.M.C.S. Naden by a brief ceremony conducted by Surgeon Captain A. McAllum, R.C.N., Medical Director General from Naval Headquarters, Ottawa. He also carried out his annual inspection of medical facilities within Pacific Command.

The new medical school is designed to provide adequate instructional facilities for medical assistants of the R.C.N. and the R.C.N. Reserve who are undergoing refresher courses. It is equipped to handle large numbers of enlistments in the medical branch during the current naval recruiting drive.

QUALIFIED STAFF

Headed by Surgeon Lieut.-Commander John W. Rogers, R.C.N., of Victoria, the new school is staffed by a competent and highly-qualified group of technicians in the naval medical field.

Included in the staff are Lieut. (N.S.) Mary E. Wilson, officer in charge of studies; Commissioned Wardmaster Thomas A. S. Kadey, administrative officer and operating room technician; and C.P.O. Martin B. Gardner, instructional chief petty officer.

Instruction at the medical school includes nine months of study for ordinary seamen entering the medical branch. Senior rates will be provided with refresher courses and advanced training of varying lengths of time. Medical students of the R.C.N. Reserve will also take courses and instruction at the new centre during their training periods with the active force.

COURSES OFFERED

Among courses being offered at the new school will be pharmacology, bacteriology, physiology, anatomy, therapeutics, medicine and medical nursing, operating room and laboratory procedure and instruction in X-ray.

Following completion of courses at the centre, medical assistants may go on to further advanced courses in specialist subjects at civilian and other hospitals, under a plan inaugurated following the World War.

Ireland Offering Industrial Benefits

MONTREAL, March 3 (CP)—Col. S. G. Haughton, president of the Association of Northern Ireland Chambers of Commerce, said in an interview last night that a warm welcome and "industrial advantages they won't find elsewhere in the British Isles" await Canadian businessmen interested in supplying the great export markets of the world from Northern Ireland bases.

Game birds of Australia include wild duck, geese, quail, snipe and pigeons, with duck and quail most plentiful.

Jean Baudet to Conduct "Faust" On C.B.C.'s Wednesday Program

THIS WEEK'S RADIO

By RAY BAINES

A man who has premiered more Canadian music than any other musician in the country will turn back to a European work when he mounts the C.B.C. Wednesday Night podium this week to conduct the C.B.C. Opera Company presentation of Gounod's "Faust."

Jean Baudet is a French-Canadian with an extensive European musical background, who served from 1937 to 1947 with the C.B.C. executive body.

Baudet left the C.B.C. to devote his time to encouraging the composition and public performance of Canadian music.

TOP CONDUCTOR

The opera should be better for the presence of Baudet, who is considered among the top conductors in the world today. Among his accomplishments have been his polished piano interpretations of Debussy's music while he studied in France and of French-Canadian music in this country.

The 2½-hour broadcast this Wednesday is in keeping with current C.B.C. Wednesday Night practice of doing shows with quantity as well as quality.

Examples have been the recent G. B. Shaw commemoration program and last week's long, part-narrative, part-dramatic broadcast depicting Elizabethan England.

RARE QUALITY

Some consider the program ponderous, but there's no question that such quality is rarely found in radio presentation. You don't have to be a stuffed shirt or a long-hair, or both, to appreciate top-notch radio entertainment even if it does require a little concentration.

In the leading roles of "Faust" will be Dolores Drolet as Marguerite, Pierre Boutet as Faust, and Denis Harbour as Mephistopheles. Harbour has appeared in "Faust" with the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York after winning the Metropolitan Opera Auditions of the Air series a few years ago.

HOCKEY BROADCASTS

"Brother," you say, "doesn't this guy listen to any thing but 2½-hour snob shows?" Nasty word, that. As a matter of fact, we don't listen to the radio at all; ours is out of action until we get a new crystal.

For those who care not for Faust, G. B. Shaw or Marlowe, here's something that CJVI is happy to announce.

All Pacific Coast Hockey League play-off games, home and away, in which the Cougars figure, will be broadcast over 'VI in toto.

Sportscaster Ted Reynolds and Engineer Dave Linquist will travel from town to town to give on-the-spot, play-by-play accounts of how the Cougars win the cup.

All game broadcasts will begin at 8:30 p.m. with the first scheduled on or around March 20. Times will not be definitely set until remaining games are played. 'VI will announce broadcast schedules later.

SYMPHONY PREMIERE

The C.B.S. presentation of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony at 10 a.m. today has Conductor Leonard Bernstein responsible for the radio premiere of the Charles Ives' Second Symphony.

In addition, a young American concert pianist, Eugene List, will be soloist in works by Darius Milhaud and Cesar Franck.

The Ives work is thoroughly American "and expreses the musical feeling of the Connecticut countryside" in the 1890's.

"I thought it would be sort of a bad joke to have some of these tunes in counterpoint with some Bach tunes," says Ives.

To the pedants who genuflect at the mention of Bach's hallowed name, this "bad joke" may be sacrilegious; but for people with an ear for new and different music, the thing sounds as if it has possibilities.

EDUCATION TALK

If we may go "intellectual" again for a brief moment, Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, erudite and popular University of British Columbia president, will give a talk on education at 7:45 p.m. Monday over CBR.

Dr. MacKenzie is noted for his honest and straightforward approach to present-day problems. To most U.B.C. students he is a "good joe" and to scholars, a brilliant analyst.

"POP" CONCERT

The Toronto Symphony "Pop" Concert next Friday will feature a distinguished American guest conductor whose own work in the United States has given birth to a new in-between type of concert music which strikes between the all-classical and all-popular fields.

Andre Kostelanetz will conduct the orchestra in some of his own compositions and his orchestrations of such light favorites as Tschaikowsky's "Sleeping Beauty Waltz" and music from "South Pacific."

Concert singer Eileen Farrell will be featured in the vocal portion of the program in two operatic works and a group of familiar songs.

Night Club Manager Plans Break For Local Amateur Entertainers

THE ENTERTAINMENT WORLD

By RON BAIRD

on the tough proving ground of a local night club stage.

Spark-plug behind this idea of moving talent from the family circle to the glazed gaze of nitery patrons is mild-mannered, ex-Winnipegger Monty Montaine—manager of the Club Sirocco.

"I just never realized how much talent there was in Victoria until recently," said Monty as he lowered his bulk into an office chair and enlarged on this idea.

MONTY MONTAINE

There will be prizes for those who get the public nod and top-liners may get a crack at a week's engagement in a Vancouver night club, or even a similar deal across the line.

AUDITIONS SOON

Auditions will start soon and winners of these test runs will appear at the Sirocco Saturday nights.

Monty, a good-natured fellow who likes his customers, believes he has found the solution to the night club question in Victoria. The same question has driven others to rural seclusion.

"Good entertainment at a reasonable price" is Monty's answer.

In the old days, a big band and lavish floor show were the thing. Unfortunately, all that was lacking was the customers.

"Victoria isn't like Vancouver when it comes to night clubs," Monty explained.

"Here you have a younger crowd, just out to dance. In Vancouver, night clubs draw an older crowd who are willing to pay more to see the big attractions."

Example: Vancouver's Cave Supper Club has been known to shell out as much as $22,000 for a two-week engagement of Spike Jones and his band, $7,500 per week for Lena Horne and a similar amount for Sophie Tucker.

It's true that Singer Fifi D'Orsay and others have done good business here for a couple of days, but the whole thing is considered a gamble with local bookers.

TALENT SAMPLES

But there's talent right here in town.

For the past few weeks, stage attractions like the top-notch Continentals (Bud Glover, Claire Anderson, Wally Grieve), Singers Pat Berry, Rus Potter, Ken Cooper and others, have played the club Saturday nights.

These acts are good, but who can hear them?

Come floor show time and everyone starts talking, crossing in front of the entertainers on the dance floor, and there are a few who even figure they've got the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers team beat a mile by showing off while a singer is working at his job.

GIVE A CHANCE

I say, let's pay a bit more attention to our night club manners and let those who can entertain do their job without amateur interference.

They can do it in other places, where the no-noise routine is enforced by burly gentlemen in dinner jackets.

However, Monty has great faith in his patrons and relaxes the rule a bit.

He has plans for bigger and better night club entertainment in the near future—maybe some top names, he hints. Sounds like a great idea from the customer's point of view.

ITEMS

Thirty guarantors are still needed by the Victoria Symphony Society to assist in underwriting the current season. Seventy have come forward with their $100 share. The balance could cut symphony expenses a good deal and insure another season. The orchestra has done its bit—how about a phone call to the society at G 9623 with your guarantee of a share? . . . The most outstanding event in the history of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra will be the March 12 concert at which the combined forces of the symphony, the Victoria Choral Society Chorus and the Victoria College Mixed Chorus will present Mozart's Requiem Mass . . . Little likelihood is seen here of local drama groups making the trip to London, Ont., to compete in the May 14 to 19 Dominion Drama Festival. The reason? Too much money involved . . . "The Stone," a locally-written musical comedy by H. B. Binny, will be presented at the Club Sirocco April 25-27 in association with the B.C. Products Fair. Music for the show was written by Mrs. Muriel Ritchie.

Search Dropped by Navy For Crashed Light Plane

Search for the Fleet Canuck aircraft which plunged into the sea off Esquimalt Harbor, February 21, has been officially called off, R.C.N. officials stated yesterday.

After ten days' operations with no success, those in charge of the project concluded the plane had either broken up into sections not possible to detect with electronic devices, had buried itself in a clay bottom, or had been swept away by strong currents which continually sweep over the area.

The plane crashed into the sea near the cruiser Ontario—in which both the lost men served. The warship was returning to Esquimalt after conducting funeral services for Commodore George Miles.

When the Ontario left her base February 26 on a training cruise to Australia and New Zealand, she paused at the scene of the crash to pay final tribute to her two lost officers. A floral wreath was laid on the water, and services were conducted by Roman Catholic Chaplain R. MacLean and Protestant Chaplain F. H. Godfrey.

Since the day after the crash, in which Lieut. Ian Macdonald and Lieut. Marcel Champagne were taken to their deaths, the minesweeper Sault Ste. Marie and a naval diving tender have conducted a search for the lost aircraft and its occupants.

Rise in Rates For Cartage Unlikely Here

Victoria cartage firms will not follow the example of those in Vancouver in boosting cartage rates 5 per cent as of March 1.

The Vancouver statement from the office of the Automotive Transport Association of B.C. said the Vancouver cartage by-law had been amended.

Rising operating costs were given as the reason behind the increased rates.

Local cartage company officials said yesterday they had absorbed an increase in operating costs when an employee wage increase went into effect September 1, 1950.

There is no city by-law in Victoria on cartage rates, they pointed out.

They said no increase in rates was likely in Victoria—at least before September 15, when the industry's present wage agreement expires.

Chest Campaign Expense Cut by One-Night Drive

A total of $151,000 has been allocated to the 18 member services of the Community Chest in Victoria according to a financial statement made public by the chest. The money is provided from the $160,000 raised in last October's one-day drive for funds.

Cost of raising the money in the last campaign was $11,000 or 6.7 cents per dollar compared with 11 cents per dollar in the 1949 drive.

The chest's own administration expenses for the year were $7,000, making a total expenditure of $169,000. Of the additional $9,000 over the amount raised, $5,000 is a balance at hand at the time of the last drive and $4,000 is a deficit to be met from the chest's reserve fund.

THE STAY-AT-POME

It's Friday nite, & my thinking is lame, 'cause I'd much rather be at the hockey game, And tho' at this paper I sit & toy o'er this sheet . . . weaves Ed. Dorehoy. And tho this pencil sharp like a razor, it seems like the stick of 'Spider' Mazur. Even the rubber, attached to one end, I can see the goal that Cotnoir does tend. This picture now clearer & I hear the uproars, 'Spider' is flying . . . he shoots . . . HE S-C-O-R-E-S. The red light flashes . . . horns & cheers. I push the G-F's hat . . . down over her ears. Then restrain myself, just in time, to calmly sit & go on with this rhyme. 'Cause I gotta tell you others at home, about our FREE offer of dishes with chrome. A complete dinner set we are giving away, plus 10 bucks for your old, that we lug away. But just sittin' here, is no go, so I think I'll switch on this radio. Beside me here, on this table & I'll finish this Ad. as best I am able. Someone has smacked it into a board, then all of a sudden Strongman scored. And then again that reddish glow, he's strong to-nite, 'cause another blow. Go slower Ted Reynolds, gimme some time, your talking faster than I can rhyme. And don't get so excited, I'm het-up enuff, as a sportscaster my boy . . . you sure know your stuff. Now it's 5 to 0, he tells me the score, the G.F. comes thru the kitchen door. He shoots to Burman on the far-side, the whistle blows . . . it's an off-side. Leger gets what Lapine had got, he lines it up, then drills a shot. Doug Adams blocks, then steals the puck, he shoots, he scores . . . Cotnoir's tuff luck. Slower Ted . . . or I can't control, Evans is flying . . . now circling the goal. He races in, now he is dumped, the Cougars of-a-sudden have badly slumped. McIntyre has got it, away it's flown, he shoves to Mazur in the Tacoma zone. The Rockets are charging, Ed's stopped by Don, 7 & a half minutes have gone. Mel Reid gets it & fools Cotnoir, 5 to 2, now is the score. The lines are changing that last goal a theft, just 9 & a half minutes all that are left. Leger s-h-o-o-t-s, boy what a zing, then he feeds that disc to his right wing. Gustafson's got it, he's flying free, and all unassisted . . . he scored . . . now it's three. Before they face-off, can I work in this plug & don't pass it off, with an impatient shrug. No, I didn't have time, as Abbot get's dumped, Reid smacks Webster, is sorely bumped. A penalty there, someone will go, just 7 minutes, 45 seconds to go. Now the Rockets aren't foolin', the Cougars seem tame, with just 6 minutes left in the game. They're changing now, can I work a plug in, Muzz is determined he's just gotta win. Another face-off, on the far side, just 4 minutes left in this changing tide. Thanks Rudy Hartman for slowing the show, ever grateful I'll be for your plug of "Bapco." Good stuff it is, & that's for sure, even for painting on our furnit-ure. Roberts off-side, just 3 minutes now, a power-play the Rockets are using and how. Muzz pulled his goalie, he waves & beckons, only one minute now & 45 seconds. All the Rockets move up, frantic to lick, a fracas below 'tween someone & Chick. One minute left, they're charging & slappin', anything now could suddenly happen. That empty goal Joe didn't see, THERE'S THE BELL . . . WE WIN . . . 5 to 3.

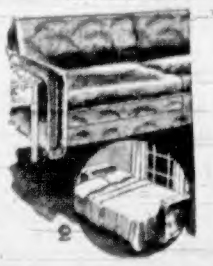
"Barley", Bruce and "Fan-stic"

a block long 3-story Furniture Warehouse behind the NEW Post Office.



Just a minute now & we'll give a review, of the things above we tried to do. We wanted to talk of a sofa-bed, but all the talking was done by Ted. Well anyhoo, it's hard to beat, for your bungalow or smaller suite. You'll score, we know, dough in your pockets, just like the Cougars did to those Rockets.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, March 3 (INS)—Some of the more larcenous birds in the fight racket are positively drooling over the latest plan to inject some life into boxing.

They already have figured out how they can dip into the gravy if the proposed plan of a television executive goes through.

The plan calls for a weekly fight program called "Stop the Champion" — for heavyweights only — to be staged in every state except New York.

The astute and aged manager Jimmy Bronson, and former light heavyweight champion Tommy Loughran would screen all the would-be fighters in a special training camp.

BONUS ARRANGEMENT

Eventually one would be selected as champion and would appear every week in a five-round bout for which he would get $1,000 weekly so long as he remained champion. His weekly challenger would get $350 but if he licked the champion he would get $1,000.

Now here's the gimmick which intrigues the fight mob: the bonus for knocking out the champion would increase by $1,000 each week so that if a champion held his title 26 weeks a challenger who then knocked him out would get $26,000.

And here's how one of the fight mob who has been in trouble often with the powers-that-be greeted the announcement:

CANNOT LOSE

"Oh, boy, that's for me. Greatest stunt I ever heard of, Mc. I'm going to dig up a lot of truck drivers and dock wallopers for the try-outs. What can I lose?

"Can my guys fight? Of course not. But what difference does that make? None of the other bums will be able to fight either.

"Looks like a soft touch to get $250. Maybe one of the bums I'll dig up can get to be champ at one grand a week."

Suddenly his face dropped open like a gaffed fish as a disturbing thought hit him and he stuttered: "Say, what happens if the champ gets cut up pretty bad and he ain't able to go on every week?"

And here was our pal's ideas about the increasing bonus arrangement: "That's a pip. Suppose they got some ham who goes the 26 weeks without losing, and suppose me or some other smart guy's got him. Are we going to let that 26 G's go to waste?

"Not so you could notice with the naked optic. Know what will happen? The champ's manager is going to proposition the challenger like this: My guy loses this week and we split that 26 G's right down the middle, 13 G's for me, 13 G's for you. Then after a few weeks when the bonus builds up big again ye let us win it back and again we split. Ain't that something?"

He paused to light up a big cigar and added:

"This is going to be funnier than the old days when we are trying to dig up a white hope to lick Jack Johnson. But, if there's dough in it, I'm for it."
